Ottawa Government Probably Will Pay Prince Rupert Men

Asks Consent of Guarantee Company For Payment of 800 Men Thrown Out of Work By Suspension of Shipbuilding Operations at Northern Port.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—A temporary setback for the Dominion Government's shipbuilding programme is entailed in the suspension of operations by the Prince Rupert Drydock and Engineering Company, official news of which has been received by the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

But, any slight delay which may occur in connection with the completion of the full list of sixty-three Government ships is regarded here as a small matter as compared with the situation brought about by the throwing out of employment of the 800 employees of the concern, which is in financial difficulties.

The company was constructing under the Government programme two vessels of the 8,100-ton type. One was nearing completion when work was suspended in December and the other would have been ready to go into commission in February. Taken together, about seventy-five per cent. of the work was finished.

Behind.

According to advice received here, the company was behind in its payroll when work on the ships was suspended. The Government is fully protected from loss by guaranteed bonds held by the London Guarantee and Accident Company and can not make any immediate move to relieve the situation at Prince Rupert, because such action, without the consent of the bonding company having first been secured, might prejudice its claim under the bond. In view of the distress due to overdue wages the Government has asked the consent of the guarantee company to paying off of the workmen by the Government. The guarantee company has the option of completing the ships, but should it decide not to do so, it is probable the Government will undertake the work at as early a date as possible.

WOOD ALCOHOL IN WHISKY BOTTLES

Shipment From Montreal to Detroit Alleged; Two Men
on Trial

Montreal, Nov. 5.—An interesting sidelight on the whiskey traffic with the United States from Canada, developed yesterday in a case which is proceeding here in the Court of Sessions when J. A. Penant and H. B. Bickel were charged with obtaining $15,000 by false pretences and with having used a false trade mark.

E. Davis, of Detroit, said in evidence that he had come to Montreal last May with a view to buying whiskey for the States and had here met the accused.

500 Cases.

He bought 500 cases of what purported to be "Canadian Club" rye, costing $15,000. This made up 6,000 bottles which it was arranged should be shipped in bags of two dozen each, to be covered with bags of potatoes. This carload of potatoes was shipped to a produce firm in Detroit, under whose reputation the car went through without a hitch. The firm was told that it was an ordinary car-load of potatoes coming through and it put its customs papers through, charging Davis a $50 brokerage fee.

The car was then opened up. It was discovered it contained bottles holding a "concoction of wood alcohol, chlorform and so on" and their contents were dumped into the river.

CHICAGO BANDITS GOT BONDS AND USELESS CHEQUES

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Four bandits today held up a messenger of the Hyde Park State Bank of Chicago and escaped with a satchel containing $41,000 in Liberty Bonds and coupons, in addition to $257,000 in non-negotiable cheques. The messenger and a bystander were shot and beaten.

CREDIT FOR GERMANY.

JAPANESE PROTEST TO UNITED STATES

Tokio Will Protest Against Land Vote in California, Says Paper

Tokio, Nov. 5.—(Associated Press)—When confirmation has been received that the people of California have voted in favor of the proposed land law in that state, the Japanese Government will lodge a protest at Washington, pointing out that the measure conflicts with Japanese treaty rights, according to The Yozuru Choho, an independent organ, which quotes a foreign official to this effect.

Formal negotiations, the newspaper says, will follow and an agreement permanently removing the cause of the trouble.

AGREEMENT REPORTED.

The Hochi Shimbun reports that M. Shidehara, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, and Secretary of State Coby have reached an agreement by which Japan will stop emigration to the United States, in return for which the United States will accord Japanese in that country the same treatment as other foreigners.

Marquis Okuma, former Premier, interviewed by The Yozuru Choho, declared that "only thoughtful people have talked of war between Japan and the United States over California."

IF JAPAN FIGHTS WITH ARGUMENTS OF DIGNITY AND IMPARTIALITY, HE IS QUOTED AS SAYING, "AMERICANS WILL ACT JUSTLY."

ALAND ISLANDS.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Diplomatic authorities here regard as a serious event the decision of the Aland Islands to Sweden as a result of the prospective deliberations of the commissions created by the League of Nations, to decide the controversy between Sweden and Finland.

Cheaper Pulp and Paper Next Year Now Predicted

St. John, N.B., Nov. 5.—One of the largest dealers in pulpwood operating in this province informed the Canadian Press yesterday that a big slump in wood pulp prices may be expected in another season.

On account of stringency in the money market and the uncertainty of prices for 1922 delivery, he predicted that operations next year would be greatly curtailed in New Brunswick.

New York, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Angus McLean, vice-president and general manager of the Bathurst Lumber Company, Bathurst, N.J., pulp and lumber producer, declared on his arrival here from abroad that Canada will take care of the United States in the matter of paper supply because of easy transportation and on account of Canada's proximity to her logical market.

FAIR TRADE IS BRITAIN'S PURPOSE

Equal Opportunity Is Objective, Tells Ambassador Geddes Tells American Audience

British Not Planning Shipping Laws Similar to American Laws

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—Great Britain and the United States must avoid national trade competition "organized by government and supported by political action," Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, declared today in an address at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here.

"The United States or Great Britain," he said, "must not begin to organize areas of exclusive economic advantage there 'would inevitably come a clash of interests that would at least strain the friendly relations between the two countries.'"

No Disadvantage.

Sir Auckland denied statements appearing in United States newspapers that United States ships had been placed at a disadvantage with British ships by British Government action. He declared, however, "not in any sense as a threat, however veiled, but as a matter of interest, that if the British Empire should adopt a law precisely similar to the United States law limiting coastwise traffic to ships flying only its own flag, there would be some far reaching derangement in the business of non-British shipping."

Friendly Relations.

Speaking not only as the Ambassador of Great Britain, but as the representative of all the British Dominions and colonies, "of one-quarter of the human race," Sir Auckland said he had no hesitation in asserting that he misrepresents no opinion of importance when he declared it was the wish of all British peoples to live in peace and amity with the United States and "with all the nations of the earth."

"I sometimes read in your newspapers," he said, "of subtle, devilish schemes which the British Government is preparing with the object of preventing your trade expansion. I have been a member of the British Cabinet, I have been the Minister of the Crown responsible for the trade policy and activities of the Government, and I assure you formally and without reservation that the principle which underlies British trade policy is expressed in the five words: 'Fair trade and equal opportunity.'"

Better Understanding.

"If we continue to trust one another," he said, "we know, as states, we trust one another, not to attempt to steal marches each upon the other, then I believe that the competition of our respective traders will add to and not subtract from the understanding of the one nation by the other."

"Let me declare without any possibility of misunderstanding that the British Government will welcome co-operation of the Government of the United States in dealing with the problems of the east and the west, and that so far as trade is concerned it stands today by its old policy of fair trade and equal opportunity."

LABOR LEADER SPEAKS OF WAGES

Tom Moore Says Reductions in Canada Would Defeat
Manufacturers' Object

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said in an interview here that reduction of wages in the factories throughout Canada would defeat the object which the employers are making reductions had in view.

"The manufacturers of this country," Mr. Moore said, "depend primarily on their home markets, and any policy which curtails that market by reducing the purchasing power through a reduction of wages of the great mass of workers must be bad business."

Margin.

Contending that a reduction of prices which brought with it a reduction of wages would only accentuate the situation, instead of bringing relief, Mr. Moore said: "What is needed is the squeezing out of some of the margin which exists between the actual cost of production and the selling price of the finished article. The people are not concerned in the reduction of prices to that of any particular per cent. What is necessary is a re-establishment of the purchasing power and value of every dollar they receive as wages."

President Moore stated that while there had been some slackening of the industries throughout the Dominion, general conditions were not so bad as many people imagined.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CEASELESS ENERGY OF B. C.'S PREMIER

C. A. Carnaroff, who was chosen campaign manager at the meeting at Cloverdale, when Hon. John Oliver was nominated as Liberal candidate for the Delta, said of the Premier:

"I have known John Oliver for more than forty years, and in that long period I have never known him to do anything dishonest. I know in back those early days when we used to dig ditches and do road work together, and John could do the work of any two men. To-day he can do the work, and a very different sort of work, of many men. There is no better type of man in British Columbia to-day than John Oliver."

Ottawa Awaits Official Returns on Liquor Votes

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Official returns of the voting in the three prairie provinces and Nova Scotia in the recent liquor referenda are not expected to reach the capital until some time next week. Official declarations of the results in the various constituencies in which the vote was taken were fixed to take place on November 3 and 5, but in some instances, and more particularly in the northern sections of Alberta and Saskatchewan, where the voters are scattered over large areas, it has not been possible to have the declarations made as yet. There will be no summing up of the official result by provinces until complete returns have been received from a province by the Chief Electoral Officer.

WRANGLER'S TROOPS DEFEND CRIMEA

Morale Is Good, But They Are Weary After Long Fight

Sebastopol, Nov. 4.—(Associated Press)—General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevik Government of South Russia, has successfully withdrawn his troops to the Crimea before the advance of the Soviet armies south of the Dnieper River. He is master of Perekop, and also Sakova.

At Sakova, General Wrangel has captured 10,000 of General Budenny's cavalry.

The spirit of his troops is good but they are worn out by their long fight. Soviet forces are besieging the anti-Bolshevik trench system on the narrow neck of the Crimean Peninsula.

Constantinople, Nov. 5.—General Baron Wrangel, whose forces have been driven back into the Crimean Peninsula from Russia, proper by Bolshevik armies, has broken a silence of four days with a characteristically laconic message to Baroness Wrangel. His telegram said: "We are fighting hard, in full hope. The baroness, who has spent many sleepless nights since the Bolshevik offensive began, said today: 'All I want is the truth; no matter how bad it is, I can stand it.'"

URGENT REMOVAL OF CATTLE EMBARGO

British Meat Traders' Association Say Cattle Should Come From Canada

Embargo Said to Be Against Interests of British Consumers

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Further efforts are under way in the United Kingdom to have the embargo on Canadian store cattle removed, according to a statement issued by the Livestock Branch of the Department of Agriculture. At the annual meeting of the National Federation of Meat Traders' Associations, held at Blackpool recently, says the statement, a resolution protesting against continuation of the embargo was passed on the grounds that it is against the interests of the home consumers, who increasingly demand fresh meat; is unjust to the producers of cattle in Canada and is producing a small class of breeders in the British Isles; the detriment of the general welfare of the peoples of the Dominions and home industries.

Premier's Support.

The opinion of the meeting, at which 40,000 master-butchers of England and Wales were represented, was that an effort should be made to secure the support of the British Prime Minister in the matter, and copies of the resolution accordingly were sent to him, as well as to the Minister of Agriculture of Great Britain. Copies also were forwarded to the High Commissioner for Canada and the Minister of Agriculture of Canada.

EDGETT READY TO OPPOSE MEIGHEN PARTY IN HOUSE

Kelowna, B. C., Nov. 5.—Colonel C. E. Edgett, Soldier-Farmer candidate in the by-election in Yale, in an interview with the Canadian Press stated that if elected he would support a vote of lack of confidence in the Meighen Government irrespective of what party introduced it.

He stated that entry of inferior fruit into this country should be barred altogether, and then there would be no necessity for a duty on the higher grades, as Canada could compete successfully with the better grades of American fruit.

Colonel Edgett expressed his opposition to a $2,500 cash bonus for returned men, but thought the Soldiers' Settlement Act should be amended in many important particulars.

William Fraser, of Ladysmith, was chosen from a field of three candidates, Mr. Fraser being the president of the Newcastle Liberal Association, and a working miner employed underground in the Extension mines.

HOLLAND MAY BE REPUBLICAN STATE

Commission Named by Parliament Has Studied Constitution

The Hague, Nov. 5.—The possibility of becoming a republic is in prospect for Holland under recommendations submitted today by the commission appointed to revise the constitution. If these recommendations are adopted, Holland will have the choice to decide on doing away with royalty unless the little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Consort Henry, some day gives birth to a son by a husband whom the Dutch Parliament approves as her consort.

The commission proposes that hereafter unless there is a direct male descendant of a male ruler, the throne shall go to some male of the second generation of the last king. In the event of there being no direct male successor, however, the people would have the opportunity to change the country's form of government, under the commission's scheme.

British Coal Miners Are Returning to Work Now

London, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Reports from South Wales, which was regarded as the centre of obduracy during the coal miners' strike, show that the men are readily returning to work.

In Lancashire and Cheshire, where the miners also voted overwhelmingly against acceptance of the agreement between their leaders and the Government, it is confidently expected that the men will resume work without undue delay, although repairs in the mines will prevent full resumption of operations until Monday.

At Hamilton, Mid-Lancashire, a band of young extremists, dissatisfied with the settlement, decided the officers of the returned men being W. J. Moore, R. K. Smart, N. H. McDermid and J. R. McKinnell. The nominating meeting will be held in the Dominion Hall next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

DROPPED DEAD.

Prince Rupert, Nov. 5.—D. Hanley, employed at the local shieryard, dropped dead on the street here last night. He had been here about seven months, having come from Seattle. He was a native of Belfast, and represented the boilermakers, iron and shipbuilders' unions.

Bringing with him an electric atmosphere, the man strode into the newspaper office and banged his stick on the counter. "Where's the editor?" he shouted angrily. "He's he's out!" replied the clerk nervously. "What's he done this time?" "In that advertisement for my valueless motor," stormed the visitor, "he turned the second 'v' into a 'u'!"

ROADS NEEDED FOR FARM DEVELOPMENT

Government's Policy to Construct as Finances Permit, Says Mr. Oliver

Cranbrook, B. C., Nov. 5.—Outlining the policies of the Provincial Government in respect to industrial expansion, immigration, colonization and irrigation projects, Premier Oliver addressed a large audience here last evening.

Referring to reports that many people are coming here from the Old Land to settle, the Premier said: "The time has come for an aggressive campaign to assist these people in becoming re-established. We do not want them to come under persuasions devoid of truth, or not understanding the real conditions, which they will be subjected. Our agricultural areas are not so far advanced as those upon which they have been living, but our potentialities are greater, and to those who are willing to apply themselves, we are desirous of granting every assistance possible.

Roads.

"We have thousands of acres awaiting the building of roads which will assist us of settlers locating thereon. Personally, I believe that British Columbia to-day needs industrial and agricultural highways to a greater extent than it needs those catering chiefly to tourist patronage.

"While the tourist is conducive to our development, the exploitation of our natural resources offers greater possibilities. Of course there are those who think otherwise, so we have adopted the broadest policy possible, with the hope of achieving every measure of success that opportunity offers.

"We are, of course, handicapped by lack of finances to initiate all these programmes immediately, but that condition probably will be beneficial in years to come, as it demands that we proceed with caution and along safe and sane lines. Just as fast as finances permit we shall adopt legislation to meet the demands."

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works and member for Cranbrook, opened the meeting by going directly into the question of public highways, comparing past, present and future policies of the respective administrations. Referring to the trans-provincial scheme, he told his auditors that five of the six links constituting the system were now under way, and that the remaining span from Hope to the interior would be started next Spring.

An important company with English capital has been formed in Ecuador to manufacture paper from recently discovered vegetable substances.

CRERAR STATES HIS PARTY'S POLICY

Dominion Farmers' Leader Says Basic Industries Should Be Developed

Prince Albert, Sask., Nov. 5.—Launching into an explanation of the principles of the new National Policy, Hon. P. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressive Party in Canada, here last night criticized Premier Meighen for statements made in the Premier's speeches at Truro, Sherbrooke and Grand Rapids, in which Mr. Meighen had referred to "dangerous doctrines taught by dangerous men," the "extreme Farmers' Free Trade Party," etc. Mr. Crerar quoted extracts from the Canadian Press reports of Mr. Meighen's speeches, and asked: "Is this the type of new statesmanship we are going to have in Canada?" He charged the Prime Minister with "misrepresenting, willfully or not, people who were as loyal as any citizens in this country."

He declared that the present Government was allied with the big interests, and that what Canada needed was honest administration, equality in education and toleration for the whole of the people of Canada.

With reference to the result of the United States election, Mr. Crerar stated that he would like to be informed of the policy of the present Government should the reciprocity proposals be received as was again in the case of practical politics with the return of a Republican administration in the United States.

Basic Industries.

As to the tariff Mr. Crerar urged more attention to the development of the basic industries rather than artificial stimulation for industries requiring protection. The Tariff Commission had gathered a mass of contradictory evidence, and the Progressive leader advocated that the industries requiring protection should place their claims in the open before a committee of the House of Commons. He instanced Great Britain's recovery after the war as an instance of what free trade has done, as compared with protectionist countries such as Germany, France and Italy.

Protection.

Mr. Meighen had spoken of a measure of adequate protection, said Mr. Crerar. The question arose as to what was adequate protection. Cream separators had always been free in Canada, and yet the industry had thrived and Canadian separators were competing in the markets of the world. Ploughs and pumps were easier to make, yet had to be protected. Canadian trade commissioners were sent all over the world to drum up business for Canadian industry, yet imports, which would pay for exports, were checked by customs duties.

Problems.

Canada had many problems before the war, said Mr. Crerar, but the war had magnified and intensified these problems. For instance, before the war the public debt was $235,000,000. Now it has $2,250,000,000; yet nobody in Canada begrudged that increase. (Applause.)

There also was the great problem of taxation. History showed that it was not the amount of taxation, but the manner of imposing taxation which counted.

There also is the question of Canadian unity. "It is a great problem, for Canada is made up of a cosmopolitan population and is a country of vast differences. If Canada is to be built up, harmonized and unified, there must be a broad spirit of toleration."

Principles.

Speaking of his party's ideals, he said the declaration of political principles laid by the farmers before the people was not the product of a few men, but was produced by great conventions in many provinces and in succeeding years. Yet this platform was criticized as a class policy and all the old bogies were raised of class against class. This criticism came from those who were interested in keeping the common people down to the level they had been on heretofore. Mr. Crerar declared he was surprised to see even the Prime Minister make statements such as he had made, about political groups that opposed him.

SEND PROTEST TO MEXICAN OFFICIALS

British and Other Mining Companies in Coahuila Have Grievance

Mexico City, Nov. 5.—British, French and American mining companies in the state of Coahuila plan a protest to the Mexican Government against the latter's decision to operate many mines in the state, owing to the inability of employers and striking workmen to reach an agreement ending the present strike. It is denied in official circles the Government has intended to confiscate the mines, but it is asserted drastic measures are necessary to supply railroads and factories with coal.

The constitution, it is pointed out, authorizes the Government to act in such an emergency.

PREMIER MEIGHEN SPOKE AT VERNON

Vernon, B. C., Nov. 5.—Speaking to an audience of 2,000 people here last evening, Premier Meighen criticized the platform of Col. Edgett, opposition candidate in the by-election in Yale. He said it would make very little difference if Col. Edgett's platform declared for sufficient protection of fruit if, by his vote in Parliament, he aided in driving the Government out. Either Mr. Mackenzie King or Mr. Crerar would come in, and both had declared for abolition of the duty on fruit.

Referring to a clause in the candidate's platform providing for 100 per cent. re-establishment of returned soldiers, the Prime Minister remarked that he knew of nobody who did not aim at such an achievement. Not only the Government, but all the members of the House had worked hard and faithfully on the matter.

London, Nov. 5.—The scarcity of livestock, cereals and vegetables in Palestine is reviving itself into a serious problem, says a Jaffa dispatch. To meet the situation, an agreement was arrived at with the Egyptian and Sudan Governments for a monthly importation of 500 head of cattle, but by the time this was ready for consumption, the price was found pro-

"Scotch & Soda"

HERE is a new dance number in which the Saxophone moans the pretty old Scotch melodies accompanied by the effervescence of the Xylophone and Piano, in sure-footed Fox Trot rhythm.

"Idle Dreams" on the reverse side, is also a Fox Trot, featuring a piano solo by Harry Thomas. Really two fine selections, both played by the Harry Thomas Trio.

REMARKABLE HAMLET

IN HEART OF JAPAN

Discovery Has Been Made of Villagers Using Bows and Arrows

Tokio, Nov. 5.—While preparing for the taking of the Japanese census a discovery was made a few days ago of the existence of a small hamlet comprising 39 families, with a population of some 240, in a valley near the Nakatsu river, a tributary to the Sumida river, in the Saitama Prefecture, the hamlet having been unknown to the officials of the Saitama Prefectural Office.

According to the Yamato, Hochi and other Japanese papers, a party of census enumerators recently discovered the hamlet, and on making inquiries ascertained that the men and women there are engaged in hunting, using bows and arrows, and in making charcoal, which is usually taken to Tano and other neighboring districts in exchange for daily necessities. Only three of the men had their names registered in the Gunma Prefectural Office, and these, joined the hamlet many years ago. When the hamlet was established is not clearly known, but the local authorities opine that the ancestors of these people were refugees of the samurai class who were defeated in battle centuries ago.

In the valley known as Suisho-kei (crystal valley), in the wilds of Chichibu district, Saitama Prefecture were also found a group of mountaineers known as Yama-otoko (mountain-men), whose number is estimated at forty or fifty, and these are not registered in the census books.

PRUSSIAN MONEY TO W. HOHENZOLLERN

London, Nov. 5.—More than 62,000,000 Dutch florins have been paid to Wilhelm, Hohenzollern, former Kaiser of Germany, as King of Prussia, by the Prussian Government since he fled to Holland, according to an official statement to the legal committee of the Prussian Assembly, says a London Times dispatch from Berlin.

The former Kaiser also received money for the building of his house at Doorn, while various sums were paid to Count Bentinck, owner of Bentinck Castle, where the one-time monarch first made his residence in Holland. According to the dispatch, full allowances also have been made to the former royal princes.

The Dutch florin in normal times was valued at about 49½ cents, Canadian money.

A NEW UNITED STATES OF RUSSIA

May Take That Form After Soviet Disappears, Some Americans Think

Washington, Nov. 4.—A United States of Russia is now looked for by officials here as the most likely possibility among forms of government to follow dissolution of the Soviet regime.

Official advice say the Bolshevik breakdown is rapidly continuing in Russia. The movement of decentralization, which began in the breaking away of the Baltic, Caucasian and Siberian states from the mother empire as a result of a disturbed internal conditions, has begun afresh within the territory rule by the Soviets, it is stated.

In Russian Turkestan, provinces only loosely knit together in the past are constituting more or less independent governments, reports say, the latest to declare their independence being Khiva and Bokhara.

A new control government, it is believed here, might include even kingdoms such as have been recently established in Turkestan together with the Socialistic form represented by the republics carved out of Siberia and forming now the Far East Republic. In such case, it is expected, the central government might take on the form of the British Empire, with certain self-governing dominions. Not only would such a plan not violate the principle of self-determination, it is said, but it would allow for the continued inclusion in Russia of the Baltic and Caucasian states of Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Azerbaijan and Georgia as self-governing states.

Among the states which a United States of Russia would be expected to include, officials enumerated: Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Ukraine, Republic of Vladivostok, Social Republic of Verkhne-Udinsk, the Soviet Republic of Omsk, and the kingdoms arising out of the division of the provinces of Turkestan and Russia proper.

TOM MOORE SCORES TORONTO RADICALS

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, gave the extremists in the Labor movement in this city a dressing down at a meeting of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council last night, and declared that, backed by The Industrial Union, for the disruption of the international.

President Moore said the extremists in the local unions were traitors to the cause of the workers, and were following tactics similar to those which preceded the big strike in Winnipeg. He scored The Industrial Union for publishing articles which led the public to believe that a serious feud existed in the ranks of organized labor in Toronto, whereas this was not the case.

MONTREAL MURDER.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Another unsolved murder was officially added to Montreal's list when a coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of murder by a person unknown at the inquest held into the death of Louis Antoine Herner, formerly night clerk in a drug store, who was fatally shot a few days ago while struggling with a young man who had entered the store and tried to rob it.

In his address to the jury Deputy Coroner Prince stated that morally the City of Montreal was criminally responsible for the murder, and that it should be brought to trial. He said there were only two policemen on duty in the district, which is one of the richest in the city.

NO ELECTION YET.

Extraordinary as such a procedure would have been there were a number of political leaders in Great Britain who would have heralded a general election as a fitting tussle between the Government and the Miners' Federation and the only means of obtaining a real mandate from the people upon the issue involved. Fortunately for the country, the Government, and Labor itself the Prime Minister had other views upon the manner in which a settlement of the strike should be reached.

It is now suggested, however, that Mr. Lloyd George would be well advised to appeal to the country and give the electorate an opportunity to express its views upon the present form of Government, as well as upon a number of important matters in which Labor is especially interested. But it may be taken for granted that the little Welshman has other views upon this question which will convince him that his programme for the time being should be to sit tight and wait until the country is better able to give itself over to a political free for all.

In this connection it should be remembered that the miners' strike furnished the Prime Minister with an excellent opportunity to gauge popular sentiment. Both press and people placed themselves behind the State. They condemned the dictatorial policy of the Miners' Federation and warmly resented the threat of the triple alliance and its promise of complete industrial paralysis. Labor's defiance, moreover, followed a growing demonstration of disfavor against its parliamentary candidates at the polls, while its heavy reverse at the municipal elections this week tells its own story.

Neither the attitude of the people nor the tone of the press during the strike, however, may be taken as an intimation to men like Thomas, Clynes and Adamson that they must renounce their aspiration to parliamentary leadership. Popular determination to support the State during the crisis and the change of view in the municipal arena merely indicate the democratic instinct of the people which invariably rouses them to action when any attempt is made to impose the will of the minority. The men's leaders except in one or two outstanding instances were not to blame. Their efforts towards conciliation have been duly noted by the people and will remain to their credit.

If there was a genuine case for a general election in Great Britain a year ago much of it has disappeared in the meantime. Unlike other war Governments that of Mr. Lloyd George appears to have established itself very much more firmly. Whether it is the man or the system is a matter of opinion. This much may be said, however, Great Britain appears to place more reliance at the present time in the ability of the little Welshman to keep John Bull and Co. as a going concern than it would in an Administration represented by a majority of either of the great parties. Until that attitude shows tangible signs of change the Prime Minister undoubtedly will hold fast.

WHY A TANGLE?

There is a suggestion in a special dispatch from Ottawa to The Toronto Star that the Province of British Columbia is in a somewhat interesting tangle in connection with the result of the recent liquor plebiscite, and that there is no authority which may be invoked by the Provincial Administration to prevent importation of liquor into the Province by private individuals for their own use. The apparently inspired narrative from the national capital likewise suggests that no further legislation to create a Provincial monopoly may be expected at the pending session of the Dominion House. It is quite true that the Government of this Province is helpless to control private importations until the federal authorities agree to furnish the requisite authority. But there is no reason to suppose that a request to Ottawa for an Act forbidding export of liquor from any other Province of Canada or elsewhere to British Columbia, except it be to the Crown, would be disregarded by the Dominion Government. Existing federal legislation was designed solely to implement the wishes of the people in Provinces adopting prohibitory law. Conversely a measure to invest the sole right of importation within the Crown in British Columbia—in view of the special circumstances—is a logical corollary.

MAKING CANADIANS.

Under a scheme of assisted emigration adopted by the British Government quite a large number of ex-Imperial veterans have reached Canada and not a few of them have found it difficult to obtain employment. Several instances of hardship, in fact, have been reported officially by the Colonial Office to the Canadian authorities in London. It is understood, too, that the Under-Secretary for the Colonies made strong representations that unless the men in question were well received and looked after on their arrival in Canada the British Government would have to reconsider its policy of assisting them to make their homes in this country.

Strangers in a strange land very often find it difficult to get along for some little time no matter how much preparation is made on their behalf. Canada is a comparatively young country and all those who wish to become Canadians must come prepared to take things as they find them and generally to forage for themselves. There is more than a welcome awaiting the right type of settler; but with all the best intention in the world no Government can assure him content unless he is prepared to do his own share. But a good deal of hardship may be spared those who really should not leave the Motherland if the Department of Immigration would exercise appropriate judgment on the other side of the Atlantic. It should not be necessary for an emigrant to make an ocean trip in order to discover an official opinion as to his suitability for conversion into a good Canadian.

This is a subject to which Mr. Calder might have devoted profitable attention when he appeared on the platform in this city last Saturday. He is the Minister in charge, and his recent visit to the Old Country should have provided him with some information which might have been passed on. Those expecting friends and relatives and not wholly in touch with general conditions in Canada as a whole surely could have used his advice to advantage.

LADYSMITH FOR OLIVER.

Liberals and Conservatives in the Ladysmith district are undisturbed by the political atmosphere of the outside world. Personal predilections have given way to an appreciation of service no matter under what political banner that service may have been rendered. Thus it came about at yesterday's nominating convention that an old-time Liberal was selected to represent the people of that enterprising community and promised the undivided support of both parties. Liberal delegates present had no quarrel with the Oliver Administration. Not a Conservative in the hall could see any possible advantage by changing the Government at this time. All of which should augur well for the Convention's nominee.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Scotland has voted in support of home industry.

Mr. Robert Cassidy, K. C., told the Conservative Convention last night that he was delighted once again to support the party to the end that the present incompetent Administration could be relegated to the cold shades of opposition. A change of heart since 1916!

The only place in the Northern half of Scotland which voted "dry" was the famous golfing resort of Dornoch. There will now be no "nineteenth hole."

In Aberdeen the "drys" issued the following warning: "Hell is the well of whiskey. The 'wets' retorted with: 'O death, where is thy sting!'"

Prohibition National Chairman Hinshaw says the League of Nations owes its defeat in the United States to the fact that it was hitched to the Democratic "booze" wagon. Unhappily prohibition and the League as a "twin reform" is only midway between failure and success.

"I won't dilute on the misdeeds of the present Government, every Conservative knows well that every Government other than a Conservative is rotten," exclaimed ex-Reeve Quick in nominating Mr. Joseph Nicholson as Conservative candidate for Saanich. No wonder his favorite failed to "make the grade."

It is not Mr. Bowser's intention to go into the details of a liquor bill; but "it will become law that no liquor can be sold except by the Government. It must be full control; liquor will be bought direct from the producers." The Opposition Leader also guarantees strict administration and proper salaries to officials connected with the new departure. In other words the public pronouncements of the Premier and the Conservative chieftain appear to be identical in effect.

Canon Hinchliffe is on safe ground when he announces that his political creed embraces a "square deal for the Province, a square deal for the municipalities and for every community in the Province." Will he not also recognize that the Oliver Administration has given a square deal to those who have suffered directly by reason of the war, and that the "little bit more than a square deal," for which he appeals in their behalf, logically must come from the Dominion rather than the Provincial Government?

OTHER PAPERS' VIEWS

AS TO FIRE AND FLOOD
(The London Morning Post.)
Occasion: Visit of his Majesty's Inspector of Schools. Trying to test mental ability of the children, his Majesty's inspector wrote upon their minds about a question, "Rhine territory and re-proached the Minister of Finance, Dr. Wirth, for not having done anything to remedy the situation."

A CONVENIENT GUIDE
(The Philadelphia News-Courier.)
William R. Hearst is one of the greatest molders of public opinion in this country. In order to make up their minds about a question, millions of Americans need only to know how Hearst stands on it. Having found out which side he is on, they know that the other side is right.

WHERE IT STARTED ENGRAVING.
(Copyright, 1920, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

The art of engraving originated in the custom of taking trial proofs or prints from the plates called "bello"—cut with reliefs of a river texture. Thus we have horse-radish, in contradistinction to the ordinary radish; horse-chestnut, instead of the finer-grained chestnut and the like.

WHY
WHY IS HORSE-RADISH SO CALLED?
(Copyright, 1920, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

The prefix "horse" is one which has come to be commonly applied to vegetables, plants, nuts, etc., of a coarse or rank variety. In order to distinguish them from species of a finer texture. Thus we have horse-radish, in contradistinction to the ordinary radish; horse-chestnut, instead of the finer-grained chestnut and the like. The same prefix is also frequently applied in the case of animals or shellfish, as, for example, "horse-leech," "horse-crab," and "horse-mussel," in all of which there is a coarse resemblance to the varieties which bear the simple name, unprefixes. For the same reason, "horse" is placed in front of some words in order to designate rough, uncouth habits or conduct. "Horse-play" and "horse-laugh" are two of the outstanding representatives of this class.

Etymologists who have looked into the matter state that there is no definite explanation of the reason for the "horse" prefix, but that it is probably a corruption of the word "coarse."

REPUBLICANS HAVE GREATEST PLURALITY

Beat All Records For the American House of Representatives

New York, Nov. 5.—With the size of the Electoral College virtually settled at 494 out of a possible 531 and the complexion of the new Senate set down as 59 Republicans and 37 Democrats, Republican leaders today awaited belated returns on six contests in four states to fix the exact size of the Republican House majority. Exclusive of the undetermined seats in the House the Republicans had 235 members to 137 Democrats and four of other designations, a plurality of 151—the greatest ever held by any party in the House. The nearest approach to it was in the Fifty-Second Congress, when the Democrats had a lead of 148. The Republicans appeared to be assured of better than an even break on the eight outstanding seats, which would give them a record party margin in the House. The seats still in doubt were in North Dakota, fifth district, eighth Minnesota, fifth Missouri, and fifteenth, twenty-first and twenty-third New York.

In Tennessee. A further possible Democrat upset appeared possible in the fourth Tennessee district, where W. P. Clouse, Republican, was reported to have forged ahead of Cordell Hull, earlier reported elected.

The Senate majority was settled late last night when belated returns from the mountain regions of Kentucky gave the Republican candidate, Richard P. Ernst, victory over Senator Beckham.

Montana. Montana's four electoral votes fell definitely into the Harding column when returns from 1,227 precincts out of the total of 1,482 gave the Republican candidate a lead of 44,530. With North Dakota, fifth district, electoral votes counted last night when Democratic leaders admitted they had given up hope of carrying the state, the addition of Montana brought the Harding total up to the 494 mark.

Oklahoma. Yesterday's count in Oklahoma assured the nation's new women voters one representative in the lower House—Miss Alice Robertson, of Muskogee, a farmer and restaurant owner. Miss Robertson was an anti-suffragist prior to the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment and made the Congressional race "to see if the men had lost it" when they "thrust the vote on us."

GERMANY FACES A HUGE DEFICIT
Hefferich Says It Will Be 70,000,000,000 Marks;

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Germany's treasury faces a deficit of approximately 70,000,000,000 marks, Dr. Karl Hefferich, former Vice-Chancellor, declared in the Reichstag yesterday. He said that in the face of expenditures amounting to 100,000,000,000 marks the receipts would total 30,000,000,000. He declared it was impossible to vote the credits demanded for the Rhine territory and re-proached the Minister of Finance, Dr. Wirth, for not having done anything to remedy the situation.

Dr. Wirth, in answering, stated the Cabinet had decided to introduce a bill providing for a sacrifice tax, adding that the Government would ask a credit of 1,000,000,000 marks to buy cereals abroad.

BRITISH ADJUST FOREIGN TRADE

September Purchases of Commodities From Abroad Below Previous Levels

London, Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press) Great Britain is doing a remarkably fast pace, the September purchases of commodities from other countries reaching the lowest monthly level of 1920, and her exports exceeding those of any other month in the year, with the exception of May and July.

According to detailed official trade returns, British imports in September amounted to $152,692,239. Total British exports were $130,900,821.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1920
(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as a fortunate day for most purposes, but they warn that it is most unlucky time for love-making. While the Sun, Mars and Jupiter are in benefic aspect, Venus is strongly adverse.

Business activities of every sort are well expected and should be successful under this rule of the stars.

There appears to be great promise for all who follow constructive work, whether it be intellectual or material, all who enjoy the good things of life and exist on the plane of selfish ambition.

Mars seems to indicate that there will be much interest focused in military matters and even some movement of troops.

The rule should vitalize and inspire all who wield power or authority, giving them additional ability to execute big enterprises.

Merchants, importers and all who deal in large consignments of manufactured articles should make the most of this day's rule, for there will be sharp fluctuations of prices, the seers declare.

Although the stars seem to fore-shadow many advantages for men in trade or commerce the aspects are inimical to the interests of women.

This is read as an unfortunate time for women to take any decided action in business or social affairs. They will be especially unfortunate if they deal with men who will be likely to resent them as associates in business quite as much as if they were competitors.

This is not a lucky wedding day, since it forecasts a domineering and selfish attitude on the part of the husband.

Two topics will be much discussed in private as well as in the public prints at this time. One is marriage and the other race questions. The seers declare that both topics will be thus brought to serious consideration in legislative bodies.

The stars supposed to influence marriage are menacing to old institutions which must be protected if they are

There is a sign read as indicating that attention will be paid to the quality of tone in the speaking voice from this time on as never before. Thus oratory may prove to be a benefit in at least one way.

HOW STEFANSSON

LIVED IN NORTH

Survived Five Years of Arctic Peril by Living Just as Eskimos Lived

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the noted Arctic explorer who is to lecture here on the evening of Saturday, November 13, at the First Presbyterian Church, upset all the old theories of the Arctic during his five years spent in the polar circles ending in 1918. Instead of carrying large supplies of food, he learned to live off the land on native animals and fish. Instead of carrying fuel, he burned seal blubber. Instead of taking a regiment of dogs and a long sledge train, he and his party traveled with six dogs and one sledge and he brought the dogs back "fat as pigs," according to his own description.

Instead of being covered with snow Mr. Stefansson found the Arctic hills full of fertile grass and capable of affording pasturage to enormous herds of reindeer, the meat of the future, according to Mr. Stefansson in his great lecture, "My Five Years in the Arctic," which is to be given here. Mr. Stefansson describes life in the northern regions as being most fascinating in its wealth of detail as to travel, food, seal hunting, bear hunting, clothing, difficulty of progress and many other features. Mr. Stefansson's first experience in living off the country was occasioned by necessity, owing to the destruction of his ship, Kariak, which carried most of his provisions. He believed, however, that he could live off the land and this he and his party proceeded to do. He studied Eskimo and learned to live exactly as the Eskimos lived. He learned to hunt as the Eskimo hunts and he learned to build ice houses as the Eskimo builds them. In this way he was able to undergo the hardships of the North and made life and travel in the Arctic circle comparatively simple.

RELIGIOUS SESSIONS FURTHER BUSINESS

Afternoon and Evening Meetings at Metropolitan Church Are Well Attended

The conference of Religious Education held further sessions yesterday afternoon and evening in the Metropolitan Methodist Church, the Rev. W. D. Spence and the Rev. J. K. Unsworth taking the chair in the afternoon and evening respectively.

At the afternoon session the Rev. E. R. McLean spoke on the "Home and Recruits for Life Service," stating that there was a vast need for greater realization of the life of self-sacrifice that was necessary to carry on the work of the church in its varied branches. The spirit required in the home to produce results for this work was one of willing sacrifice, he stated. The Rev. Dr. Cope, following along the lines taken by the first speaker stated that the family should observe the daily worship more closely, and that every family should for some period every day shut itself from the outside world to commend themselves to God.

At the evening session Taylor Statten, national secretary of the Boys' Work Department of the Y. M. C. A., gave an inspiring address on the subject of the "Boy in the Home." Mr. Statten emphasized his points clearly with graphic elucidations, and stated that the Home was the first character school that effected the mind and life habits of the boy.

Committees were appointed at the evening session as here given: Committee of management—Methodist, Rev. T. H. Griffith, district convener of the R. E.; Anglican, A. R. Morris, Synod session of the R. E.; Baptist, Rev. Wm. Stevenson, district convener of R. E.; Congregational, Rev. W. D. Spence, convener of conference of R. E.; Y. M. C. A., Mr. Chaum, boys' work convener; Y. W. C. A., Miss De Wolfe, girls' work convener; and the Rev. H. M. Thompson, Aubone Hoyle, Reginald Chave, Dr. Raynor was appointed on the committee of co-operation in local boys' work; girls' work, Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Cross, and the secretaries of each co-operating unit were also added.

An executive committee was named, including President Rev. R. M. Thompson, Vice-President Miss De Wolfe, Secretary Mr. Aubone Hoyle, Treasurer Reginald Chave, while the recording secretary has yet to be chosen.

TO-DAY'S JEWELS

The talismanic gem which belongs to this day is the ruby, the stone associated with Venus and Friday throughout the history of superstition. It is believed to bestow upon its wearer strength of body and strength of character. To a man it brings the ability to command others; to a woman it promises lofty ideals, but as gift between friends it, curiously enough, is believed to promote jealousy and misunderstanding. Too great, superstitious value cannot be placed upon the cat's eye, which is to-day's natal stone, according to the old writers. The cat's eye is believed to ward off evil spirits and at the same time to attract for its wearer great admiration. One who possesses a cat's eye has the key to personal magnetism, according to ancient lore. Silver blue, the color associated with Venus, is to-day's most fortunate hue. Those who wear it are believed to be extraordinarily pleasing and possessed of great fate. The blue-of-the-valley is to-day's significant flower.

NEW CLUB FUNCTIONS.

The Balfour-Tranquille Club, in connection with the Women's Auxiliary to the U. W. V. A. held their first monthly meeting last night with Mrs. Cave in the chair. Plans for the distribution of Christmas parcels to the patients at Balfour and Tranquille were placed under way, while much business incidental to the organization of the new club was transacted. A report from the treasurer showed $44 on hand, and it was planned to hold further socials every month to raise funds for the purpose of sending cigarettes and tobacco to hospitals. Mrs. Hunt was appointed to further plans for the first social to be held the first Monday in next month; Mrs. T. Palmer, secretary, will answer all queries in regard to the work of the club, for which the support of all is cordially requested.

Social Personal

Over two hundred attended the informal monthly "at home" at Government house yesterday afternoon when these functions were resumed after the summer interval. Exquisite yellow chrysanthemums transformed the entrance hall into an autumn bower, while the single pink variety was used with pleasing effect in the drawing room, where Mrs. Prior in a gown of grey crepe de chine received the many callers. Tea was served in the dining room, the tea table being artistically arranged with pink chrysanthemums, lighted candles with pink shades throwing a soft light over the charming appointments. Mrs. Lampman, Mrs. George Johnston, and Misses Bullock, Webster, Helen and Norma MacDonald, Gwen McPhillips, Gladys and Marion Pitts, Iris Burton and Doris Wilton assisted the hostess in dispensing tea. Among those who called during the afternoon were Capt. and Mrs. De Melin, Dr. and Mrs. Harper and Miss Harper, Mrs. Little, Miss Lucy Little, Mrs. J. W. Troup, Mrs. Roy Troup, Mrs. R. F. Green, Mrs. R. Green, Jr., Mrs. M. P. Gordon, Mrs. J. McB. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Corning, Mrs. Philip Frideaux, Mrs. Greer-Wyldie (Ottawa), Mrs. Harold Eberts, Miss Eberts, Mrs. A. J. Gibson, Mrs. S. F. Holmes, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Worlock, Mrs. Curtis Simpson, Mrs. R. B. McMillan, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. E. Matthews, and many others.

Members of the V.A.S.C. gathered one hundred strong last night at Carter Hall to bid farewell to their late popular members, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall. Dancing was the popular pastime of the evening. After refreshments were served, President Hopper, on behalf of the club, presented the guests of honor with a silver cream jug and sugar bowl engraved with their initials and the letters "V.A.S.C." Mr. Marshall thanked the club with a few witty remarks and for a time kept the hall in peals of laughter. Mrs. Menell, lately back from England was also given a rousing reception. The social was well attended and everyone enjoyed themselves immensely, so that the committee in charge have to be congratulated on the splendid success of their efforts.

Mrs. S. J. Willis, wife of the Superintendent of Education, received yesterday afternoon for the first time at her residence, Fort Street. The many callers were received in the drawing room by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Watkins, Mrs. Shandley and Mrs. Brown. Presided at the tea table, with its dainty decorations of chrysanthemums and roses. The little Misses Vida Shandley and Gwen Watkins attended the door.

A merry party of young people, attired in fancy costume, invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McDermott, Grace Manor, Uplands, last evening and gave a surprise party in honor of Mr. McDermott. Dancing was the popular pastime, the merriment being kept up until a late hour.

Mrs. Wingate White, of Mill Bay, Mrs. Thompson, of Chemainus, and J. Ford and Mrs. Ford, of Shawnigan, are up-Island visitors registered at the Dominion Hotel.

BOYS A VALUABLE COMMUNITY ASSET

Women's Canadian Club Hear Interesting Talks on Up-bringing of Youth

A plea for understanding of the boy and a realization of the fact that he lives in a different world from the adult, a world which has its own code of morals, its own language and its own public opinion was made to the members of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon in the course of impressive addresses by Taylor Statten, organizer of the Canadian Standard Efficiency Training Movement, and C. K. Atkinson, secretary of the International Boys' Federation. The meeting was held at the Empress Hotel, and in addition to a big gathering of club members included representatives of the local clergy and the Rotary Club.

Boy a Valuable Asset.

Mr. Atkinson, the first speaker, gave an interesting account of his work among boys, appealing for a sympathetic attitude in dealing with youth. He dealt with the value of the boy to the community, as consumer and producer, stating that his value as an asset was so great that cities should be prepared to spend at least as much, if not more, in protecting boy life as in protecting buildings, and that the establishment of supervised playgrounds, gymnasiums and similar recreative facilities would redound to the interest of the community. While admitting that Victoria was fortunate in its low percentage of delinquency among boys and girls, he pointed out that the moral and disease contagion of a city could not be kept where it originated, and to this end it was necessary to take precautionary measures for the protection of all boys.

He advocated establishment of a Boys' Community Club, where boys of all denominations and creeds could meet on common ground for recreation—such a club to become a clearing house from which boys would gradually be gathered into the various churches.

The Spirit of Service. The necessity of teaching the ideals of team work, co-operation, unselfishness and service upon the youth of to-day was emphasized by Mr. Statten. In the past too much time had been devoted to the adult by the churches, to the neglect of the young, but, to develop the spirit of service it was necessary to start with the boys and girls. The speaker decried the old-fashioned negative attitude, under which a child was brought up under a policy of "don'ts," instead of turning the natural activity and spirit into the proper channels. Mothers often lost patience with their boys because they refused to study them, could not understand them. During the boy's period of adolescence many mothers made mistakes by breaking with their boys, checking them too severely from joining other boys in their adventures. Fathers, too, by allowing themselves to be too absorbed in business interests, were losing the great opportunity offered them at this time of becoming their son's friend and confidante.

Mr. Statten pointed out that boys were gregarious, and should be encouraged to join some well-organized "gang," such as the Boy Scouts, Boys' Naval Brigade, or similar institution.

The "gang" instinct was strong in boys, and where there were good leaders the boy's character would be developed by this contact with his fellows.

Mrs. P. MacNaughton moved, and Mrs. Harvey seconded the vote of thanks to the speakers. Miss Middleton contributed much pleasure to the occasion with her delightful singing.

AGED WOMEN'S HOME

Good Reports of Month Given at Committee Meeting; Numerous Donations.

The regular monthly meeting of the committee of the Aged Women's Home was held at the Home on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Clay, in the chair, and members present, Mrs. Carne, Mrs. Gould, Mrs. W. Grant, Mrs. H. Grant, Miss O'Brien and the secretary. The usual business of the month was attended to and all bills ordered paid. The secretary reported all the inmates of the Home in their usual state of health, with the exception of one, who had been to the hospital for a few days' treatment, but was now back at the Home. One had applied for admission, but there is no vacancy at present. The visiting committee for the month is Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Vincent.

Donations gratefully received during the month were: Cakes, First Baptist Church, Daughters of St. George and Miss Mary Spencer; fruit, Mrs. Harold Grant, St. Saviour's Church, Reformed Episcopal Church and Miss A. J. Woodward, who had just reached home after a tour in England. Mrs. Marchant delivered the address of welcome, while the gathering joined in the united felicitations to the returning president. After a delicious supper, held at 6 p. m., an attractive musical programme was carried through.

Welcome President—Last evening the members of the Girls' Corner Club to the number of 70 gathered to welcome the return of their president, Mrs. A. J. Woodward, who had just reached home after a tour in England. Mrs. Marchant delivered the address of welcome, while the gathering joined in the united felicitations to the returning president. After a delicious supper, held at 6 p. m., an attractive musical programme was carried through.

Concerts were given by the Young People's Association of St. John's Church and the Business Girls' Club, both of which were thoroughly enjoyed by the inmates.

CLERK OF HOUSE NOT YET NAMED

Temporary Appointment Has Been Made to Legalize Business

Contrary to announcement appearing elsewhere, John Little White, Deputy Provincial Secretary, has not been appointed clerk of the Legislative Assembly in succession to the late Thornton Fell.

As there is no one holding the office of clerk of the Legislature, Mr. White has had the power conferred on him of signing documents that have to be signed by the clerk between now and the opening of the session. Persons hearing this, jumped to the conclusion that Mr. White had been appointed to the office. He was kept busy all this morning explaining the situation over the telephone to people who hastened to congratulate him.

So far no appointment has been made to the office, it was officially announced today.

John S. Floyd, of Oak Bay, and William Lowden, of Queen's Forks, have been appointed Justices of the Peace.

New notaries public are: Benjamin Brooks, of Victoria; Edwin Coleman Paynter, of Westbank; Erse Robinson, of Golding, of Vancouver; James Ryerson Mitchell, of Penticton; Robert Whillies, of Kelowna.

William Crossley, of Kamloops, has been named as official administrator for the Kamloops district during the absence from the Province of Frederick Temple Cornwall.

Special Children's Matinee.—The Variety Theatre will give a special matinee Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock instead of 2 o'clock as usual, for the children and their parents and friends. In addition to Mary Pickford's comedy feature, a special one-reel comedy will be shown, and also the "Lost City," the great animal picture.

The accused was an elderly man who had been active service in a front line battalion during the war.

Emily Girard, charged with vagrancy, was remanded until tomorrow for hearing. G. R. Thompson, charged with passing a street car in his automobile while discharging passengers, was also remanded until tomorrow. E. J. Harris, part proprietor of the Lodge Cabaret, was remanded until Monday on a charge of having liquor for sale on those premises.

Amber E. Turner, of the Tourist Bar, defended by R. C. Lowe, was fined $300 on a conviction of having liquor for sale. The story repeated the evidence of Jailer Hall and Sgt. Blackstock, who had made a concerted raid on several of the premises in town recently, when Hall was served with whisky in the Tourist Bar. The evidence to-day showed that the license had been transferred from Frank Turner to his brother Amber, who the former was charged in the court recently, which led the magistrate to remark that these licenses were being juggled with and faked to evade prosecution.

Robert Turner, who was attending to bar at the arrival of the police officers, put up a strenuous fight at the time, and broke a large glass jug of whisky secured by Sgt. Blackstock by striking it with a flying bottle. After a considerable scuffle Robert Turner was subdued and the evidence collected in peace.

Sergeant Blackstock told the court that on the night following the taking of the "evidence" he had called again at the Tourist Bar just in time to see the bar tender empty another jug into the sink.

Mr. Lowe protested that the evidence had not been secured on the second night, but the police officer swore to the fact that he had smelled whisky from the jug that was broken. In fining the accused $300, Magistrate Jay told him that Robert Turner, if called on the same charge, would not have to face the same fine.

Dr. R. Ford Verrinder introduced the visitors.

Lectures and demonstrations are going on to-day also.

VICTORIA BANK TO EXTEND PREMISES

Imperial Bank Contemplating Additions to Present Accommodation—Work to Commence Before End of Year

Extension of bank premises is one important feature of the downtown building development to be witnessed in Victoria during the next few weeks. Several applications for the building of annexes to the existing premises have been filed at the City Hall, and while some of the plans are purely of a tentative nature with the date of commencement of building operations undecided, it is probable that most of the projects will be actually under way before the beginning of the new year.

The Imperial Bank of Canada, at the corner of Yates and Government Streets, will, it is understood, shortly extend its floor space by embracing part of the building occupied by J.
N. Harvey & Company, men's clothiers, on Yates Street.

Local Body, Not Heads Must Come to Decision

President Warren, of Amateur Union, Non-committal on Patching Up of Squabble; Keep Pro Exploiters Out.

"I cannot say yes or no to the question as to whether or not the local body of the B.C.A.A.U. will meet the outlaws and patch up the trouble which has been going on in amateur circles. That is a question which must be decided not by me as president but by the local body, which is duly representative of all branches of sport in this city. This body unanimously agreed to suspend the players and any decision towards settlement or otherwise must come from the same body."

This statement was made by George I. Warren, president of the local branch of the B.C.A.A.U., to the Sporting Editor of the Times this morning when questioned as to whether or not the union was prepared to talk over the matter of reinstating the suspended amateurs.

"There seems to still be a mistaken idea that the officials of the B.C.A.A.U. are making all these decisions," continued President Warren. "We are not. Every branch of sport, rugby included, was represented at the meeting when it was decided to suspend the original players. It was decided that the rules governing amateur had been contravened and the order for suspension was made. The officials were then called upon to put the order into effect."

To Clear Things Up.

President Warren intimated that a meeting of the B.C.A.A.U. will be held next week when the case of the body will be carefully prepared and presented.

"We are trying to be fair to all athletes at the same time as we are trying to keep certain professionals from exploiting legitimate athletes in this town," declared the president. "If anyone wants the amateur laws changed then it must be done in a constitutional way. We are not trying to interfere with sport and do not wish to antagonize any board which is endeavoring to carry on clean sport."

Meeting Footballers.

To-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock a special meeting will be held before representatives of the British Columbia Provincial Football Association and the B.C.A.A.U. when an agreement will be drawn up to define the status of footballers. At a recent meeting of the B.C.P.F.A. held in Vancouver the matter of affiliation with the amateur union was discussed and a committee was appointed to go into the matter. The Victoria and District Football Association is affiliated with the union but the rest of the province is "out."

BAYS ARE PLAYING CADETS TO-MORROW

The J. B. A. Ar rugby team which will play against the Naval Cadets at the Canteen Grounds to-morrow afternoon will be as follows: Full-back, Hickey; three-quarters, Vincent, Armstrong, Goodwin, Scott and McKensie; half-backs, Boss Johnson and Anderson; forwards: John Johnson, Travis, Miller, W. Brynjolfsson, Straith, Moses and George.

WHOLESALE TO FORE AS SOCCER EXPONENTS

The wholesale grocers of the city are now taking up football and one game has already been played. Last week "Leiser's" Lightning Larrupers defeated "Kelly's" Klasse Kombination in a speedy game at Beacon Hill.

"Rithet's Rumping Rovers" have now come through with a challenge to play the winners and it is possible that a Wholesale Grocer's Soccer League may be formed in the near future.

Rithet's eleven will meet Simon Leiser's aggregation on Saturday afternoon at Beacon Hill at the grounds opposite the Albion Cricket Grounds at 2 o'clock, and a lively game is anticipated.

Upsets May Happen, But Leaders Are Favorites

In To-morrow's Soccer

Upsets may happen, but the leaders are favorites in to-morrow's soccer. Last Saturday, however, they showed form and drove in a "win-over the Vets."

To-morrow's soccer card is as follows:

Senior.

Comrades vs. Metropolis at Central Park; referee, Pearson.

Sons of England vs. Yarrows at Royal Athletic Park; referee, Lock.

G. W. V. A. vs. Victoria Wests at Beacon Hill lower ground; referee, O'Keefe.

Intermediate.

Garrison vs. Mets at Work Point; referee, Jasper.

Equivalents vs. Firemen at Beacon Hill, upper ground; referee, Stokes.

The senior schedule has pitted the top three teams against the bottom three, unless something unexpected happens, the games should swing to the credit of Victoria West, Yarrows and Metropolis. Interest will not be as keen in these fixtures as if some of the topnotchers were battling against one another to keep up in the first half, but there is a possibility that the tail-enders will turn out keen line-ups and give the haughty upper class a severe mauling.

A Good One.

On paper it looks as if the Comrades and Metropolis will provide the most interesting battle. The Mets' Equivalents team will provide a very exciting clash, while the Mets-Garrison mix-up will be a hot affair.

The teams are as follows:

Metropolis: Senior, Leeming; Church and Taylor; Vale, Brynjolfsson and Quinn; Jimmy Cummings, Petticrew, Dakers, Johnnie Cummings and Tooty.

Yarrows: Bridges, Ord, Munro, Meagher, Charman, Brown, Roe, Bridges, Swan, Prevost, Mulcahy, Cummins and Gardner.

Sons of England: Wests-Charley; Whyte, Copas and O'Keefe; Allan, Sherrill and Baker; Mulcahy, Muir, Peden and Jimmie Sherrill.

Equivalents: Knight, Jim Carmichael and Bill Thompson; Carmichael, Simpson and O'Keefe; Bendall, Small, Thompson, Watt and Stewart.

Metropolis Intermediate: Laddell, Ledingham and McIlwride; Campbell, Cull and Webster; Quinn, Chester, Dowds, Hayward and Sanderson.

Sons of England Intermediate: Locke, Greig; Thomas, Vincent, Davidson, F. Kerley, Tupman, A. Kerley, Walters, Atwell, Reserves, Comrades—J. Hetherington; Petch and Phillips; Faichen, Miller and McConnell; Harper, Bloom, Brewster, Holt and Todd.

It is expected that the Vets will be able to take a second fall out of the Wests. In the opening game the Vets hung the beaten sign on the "Youse" clan, but only sensational foot-tapping by Sherrington enabled the warriors to triumph. The Wests now have a strong back division and their forwards are fairly confident of scalping the Sons of England. The count will more than likely go to the shipbuilders, but the Sons have been coming strongly of late. They found the road rather rocky at the first of the season, due to the fact the players were strange to one another's play.

Man o' War Will Get $100,000 to Race in England

London, Nov. 5.—Freeman Bernstein, of New York and Boston, who promoted the Jimmy Wilde-Patsy Wallace bout in Toronto last Summer, stated here yesterday that he had cabled to Samuel Riddle, of Philadelphia an offer of $100,000 (almost $160,000) to bring Man o' War to run in England next Spring. Bernstein states that he had made no effort to match any English horse with the American champion, but it is not a matter of difficulty to arrange a match.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Before and since the match race in Canada in which Man o' War defeated Sir Barton, many offers have been made to get the champion abroad, while prominent sporting men have urged Mr. Riddle to send him to England, to meet the English champion, Comrade.

Mr. Riddle is on a hunting trip, but his wife says she does not think a purse alone, no matter how big, would be sufficient inducement for Mr. Riddle to send the horse abroad.

Meeking Will Be With Aristocrats This Year

MAY BE SENSATION

Aggressive Little Forward Comes to Terms With Manager Patrick; "Livy" Beaten in This Deal

Harry Meeking, who last year earned the title of the "Bad Man" of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, will be with the Aristocrats again this season. His signed contract has just been received by Lester Patrick, manager of the Victoria team, and sets aside all doubt as to whether or not Harry would throw in his lot with Livingstone in the Canadian Hockey Association.

Practically every hockey fan will be glad to know that Meeking will be back with the Aristocrats. It is true that he was continually crossing with Mickey Ion while on the ice and as a result paid up a handsome total of penalties, but Meeking seldom picked the trouble. When some one else riled him, however, he was always ready to counter with his "dukes" and was not to be blamed for Meeking was not to blame, but he insisted on plastering him with the penalties.

Good Just The Same.

Despite this Meeking is a grand little stickhandler, perhaps the flashiest on the team. He is an aggressive player and can penetrate a defence about as cleanly as any man in the league. It was his aggressive style of play that worried the opposing teams last year and caused them to pick trouble with him and have him rushed to "the cooler."

Meeking is a good all around player. He plays equally well on wings or centre. Just where Manager Patrick will use him this season depends upon the personnel of the teams at the time the training season opens.

Beat Livingstones.

Lester Patrick scored a triumph over Livingstone, the Toronto magnate, when he got Meeking to put his signature on a contract. Meeking, who, though only a youngster, has played four seasons in professional hockey, played in Toronto before coming to the Coast and had been a Livingstone man. When "Livy" tried to sign the player, he offered him a fat remuneration, on paper, to the athletes. Meeking was handed the tempting bait in the form of a $300 raise, on the Patrick offer, but Harry tossed the bacon back and decided to stay with the Coast League. The action of Meeking shows that the hockey players have confidence in the men who are operating this league and are not prepared to jump to a new outfit about which they have doubts. When the Patricks can go right into Livingstone's own territory and sign players it does not speak much for the success of the new C. H. A., which is trying to get a stranglehold on Eastern hockey.

Meeking may prove a sensation this season. He has the ability, and with constant work may have the high-liners in the scoring division fretting over their position.

The Teams.

The teams are as follows:

A Team: Fullback, S. Williams; three-quarters, J. Matson, S. Gillespie, E. Lumsden and R. Ker; five-eighths, D. M. Grant (capt.), halves, Stewart and D. Grubb; forwards, J. Drummond, J. B. Acland, H. Wilson, H. Herman, R. Parfitt, T. J. Penderay and T. Matson; reserves, E. McKee, S. Honeychurch and J. Chadwick.

B Team: Fullback, Steel; three-quarters, F. Bannon, V. Huxtable, I. S. Galloway and I. Blythe; five-eighths, S. Parker; halves, B. Wilson and N. Robertson; forwards, J. McKee, W. Tolmie, F. Tolmie, H. Lowe, S. Monteith, C. Chisholm and H. I. McIlreath; reserves, D. Johnson and E. Hanbury.

Within The Ropes

Tacoma, Nov. 5.—Morgan Jones, of Tacoma, was the victor in the first round of a six-round draw here last night. It was agreed before the fight that a draw decision would be made if the men were on their feet at the end of the sixth round because of a difference in weight.

Jones failed to make the agreed weight, 128 pounds, weighing in at 131½ pounds. Ridley failed to move the beam at 128 pounds, Joe Waterman, Ridley manager, refused to consent to anything but a draw because of the weight discrepancy.

Harold Jones, Tacoma lightweight, won a six-round decision over Carl Martin, Portland, by left jabbing his opponent. Clem Zubowski, and Bud Fisher boxed a draw and Mike De Pinto and Mickey Hanson also mixed evenly. In the opening bout Ray Temple was shadowed by Bob Allen.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 5.—With knockouts in all bouts but the main one, fight fans here last night had a splendid exhibition served up to them.

Frankie Denny, of Oakland, earned a draw with Billy Wright, of Seattle, the latter having to do a deal of hanging on men were on their feet at that time he had had the better of the argument.

Charlie Bradley, of Milwaukee, had it all over George Brown, Vancouver, and was awarded a technical knockout. Brown being in such bad condition in the third round that the referee stopped the bout.

The smartest fight of the evening was the one between Johnny Macintosh and Kid Curley, both local boys. Colosough going to victory by the K. O. route.

Billy Young, of Vancouver, got the surprise of his life in his bout with Ernie Daly, of Seattle. About the middle of the second round Young had pushed Daly, when four nicely worked punches landed on his head and he was punning him unmercifully when a wild swing from Daly's right sent Young to the canvas to finish the bout.

During the evening a lecture on the work of Mrs. Davies, chairman of the swimming section of the Victoria Yacht Club, was given by the Yacht Club.

Consolidation Prizes

The gymnasium of the V. I. A. A. at Victoria West was the scene of an interesting little presentation last night, when four nicely worked "wings" were given to Miss Muriel Daniels, Miss Florrie Gates, Miss Edna Curry, and Miss Frances Bailey as consolidation prizes for having finished in the swim from the Causeway to the Gorge. The badges were the work of Mrs. Davies, chairman of the swimming section of the V. I. A. A.

WITH THE QUOTERS

The quoters were unable to finish the handicap on Saturday last at the Willows, on account of the darkness, so the semi-finals and final will be played off to-morrow afternoon. The numerous entries make it impossible to completely finish the handicap in one day, and daylight is necessary for the players to do justice to themselves in these competitions.

The new players are improving in the fast, and take a keen interest in the game. T. Campbell, J. Buchanan and J. Wallace, being most conspicuous, and will make good quoters in a short time.

The local men are looking forward to a club match with Wellington and Nanaimo in the near future, and are sure to give a good account of themselves, although the visitors have the reputation of beating all comers up the island. The boys here are eager to meet them, and are very confident of the result.

Games start at 2 p. m. every Saturday.

THE LONELY ANGLER.

The morning faded into afternoon, which in turn was shadowed by the coming of the night. It was cold and grey.

But the angler moved not, save to readjust his bait. He had been there for many weary hours, when a frigid chance to stroll along the river bank.

"Halloa, George," he cried. "How many have you got?"

George looked up rather vacantly and responded:

"When I get this one I'm after and four more I'll have five."

STONE DEAF AT THE MOVIE.

He had been dining well, but not too wisely, and as he was staggering homewards a friend met him and suggested that perhaps it would be better if he were to sit quietly in a picture show for a time.

They accordingly went in together, but in a little while the friend found the inebriated one sobbing quietly to himself, although the picture then flickering across the screen was certainly not a pathetic one.

"What's the matter?" he hissed. "Why can't you sit quiet and look at the picture?"

"No good," of man," sobbed the other. "I've gone stone deaf. I can't hear a single word they are saying."

WOOL-CARDING BEE HELD AT SAANICH

At Home of Mrs. J. G. McKay; Made Comforters For Girls' Club

The home of Mrs. J. G. McKay at Saanich yesterday assumed an old-world atmosphere when about fifty women gathered for a "wool-carding bee" for the purpose of making comforters for the Girls' Club, Fort Street. The "bee" was held under the auspices of the South Saanich Women's Institute and representatives of the West Saanich, Gordon Head and Garden City Women's Institutes, as well as the Provincial Arts and Industrial Institute, were in attendance and lent their aid to this worthy cause.

Mrs. Dennis Harris, Mrs. McKay, Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. Brethour and Miss Effie Macpherson, all proved to be adepts in the handling of the wool and guided the more inexperienced in the mysteries of teasing, carding and generally preparing the raw wool, which had been donated by the Institute and represented the fleece of Saanich sheep. Such excellent progress was made and such enthusiasm exhibited that at the close of the afternoon six delightfully warm comforters testified to a well-spent day and will bring comfort to the inmates of the Girls' Club.

During the afternoon Mrs. McKay exhibited a woolen mattress made by herself from wool washed and prepared at home, the finished product eliciting the warmest admiration and stimulating a spirit of emulation. George G. Bushby, who was an interesting feature of the carding process, commended the women for their work and encouraged them to carry on their laudable intention of reviving the art of spinning and weaving in the home. Mrs. Dennis Harris contributing similar sentiments.

The South Saanich Women's Institute members were the hostesses at a bounteous luncheon and tea for the helpers and the town contingent left shortly after five well rewarded for their visit to the first wool-carding bee held on Vancouver Island.

FINE BOOKLET

ISSUED ON NOVA

SCOTIA'S FUTURE

Department of the Interior

Sends Out Bulletin For

Immigrants

Every former resident of Nova Scotia and those who are interested in the development of the natural resources of the Maritime Provinces will be interested in a booklet which has just been issued by the Department of the Interior, Natural Resources Intelligence Branch. It is exceedingly well printed on the government press and excellently illustrated with characteristic pictures of the scenery, industries, and historical points of the Province which was the first to secure representative institutions on the American continent still associated with the British Empire.

There is a brief sketch of the history of Nova Scotia, with its three periods of settlement outlined, and a statement with regard to the opportunities which it offers to British immigrants. In spite of Halifax being the nearest port to Great Britain in constant communication with the British Isles, the number of immigrants to Canada who stay in the Province is quite small, and with so many potential resources it is not difficult to see that there is plenty of opportunity to add to the existing population of half a million, of whom 80 per cent. are of British descent. In common with British Columbia, whose resources have been only developed to a limited extent, the industries have been thoroughly prospected in Nova Scotia, and though the public generally associates the Province with its orchards, its foundries, and fisheries, the booklet shows that several other valuable assets are awaiting industrial expansion.

In keeping with the mercantile expansion of the Dominion special attention is made to the development work at Halifax harbor, known as the Halifax-Ocean-Terminal, the cost of which to March, 1919, was $15,000,000, and upon which $8,000,000 has been voted by the House of Commons.

SAANICH FINDS TREASURY IS FULL

Rotund Surplus Marks General Revenue Receipts at Royal Oak

The Saanich Council members were last night delighted to receive from Clerk Cowper an interim report on the current year's revenue which showed that 1920 has been remarkable for the creation of a surplus of over $21,000 beyond the estimates made at the commencement of the year, this in spite of the fact that all expenditure estimates have been greatly overrun. Most of this showing is due to the fact that the arrears of taxes collected have amounted to $73,228, whereas the estimated receipts under this head were set at $52,500.

Another source of revenue which greatly exceeded all expectations was the collection of $2,415 in police court fines, where but $1,000 had been looked for. Similarly the tax sale charges were expected to produce $1,500, and the actual amounts received totalled $7,397.

Practically all down the list the collections handsomely exceeded the expectations, even the 1920 tax rate sharing the experience, the estimate that $78,873 would be received falling short of actual takings by nearly $10,000, with a further $2,500 expected before the year ends.

A Wealthy People.
The net result is that the expected general revenue for the year, excluding school taxes and debt rate, is set at $174,432, a surplus over the estimates made at the beginning of the year of no less than $43,300.

Against this is to be set a surplus of expenditures over those anticipated amounting to $22,000, leaving the municipality handsomely on the right side of the ledger.

As the increased revenues are almost entirely due to the payment of arrears of taxes which had not been expected to be in the treasury until next year, Clerk Cowper recommended that the council leave the surplus in the treasury so that next year's council will not have to strike a high rate.

EXAMINES TAX PROBLEM SET BY THREE PROVINCES

Dr. Clark, of Manitoba University, Shows B.C. Labors Under Disadvantages

SUBSIDIES GIVEN BY DOMINION COMPARED

The Dominion Government pays four times as much to the cost of civil government in Alberta and Saskatchewan as it does in British Columbia. This is in spite of the tremendous expense of administering a country of the character of the Pacific province.

Dr. A. B. Clark, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Manitoba, has just issued a booklet on the taxation systems of B. C., Alberta and Saskatchewan, in which he tells facts that are too little appreciated by the average citizen. He mentions the statement contained in the above paragraph, and in the booklet shows that municipal sources of revenue elsewhere have been attacked by the Provincial authorities in western Canada, and that sources of income allowed to the cities of the prairies are not available in British Columbia. Many of his conclusions agree with those of Professor Haig, of Columbia University, who investigated conditions in this province, as in Saskatchewan, in 1917.

The pamphlet shows how the policy of single tax is being gradually broken away from in the three provinces, and how business and income taxes in the cities are working out in practice. Mr. Clark criticizes the policy of taxing the absence of the province in the light of present conditions in the West.

The book is a most valuable contribution to the eternal controversy on taxation.

Two Salient Features.

He says in reviewing British Columbia taxation: "Two of the most distinctive features of the provincial revenue system of British Columbia, features which have hitherto differentiated it most clearly from the system of the Prairie Provinces are: (1) the large proportion of its revenue which has been derived from the development of the immense natural resources of the province—its public lands, timber, minerals, mines and fisheries, and (2) the increasingly important contributions to that revenue made within recent years by the Provincial Income Tax."

Just as the colonies which united as provinces to form the Dominion in 1867 were allowed to retain in the hands of their own governments all the Crown lands, including timber lands, mines, minerals, or royalties, which had been transferred by the British Government to the several colonies long prior to Confederation, so British Columbia on its admission in 1871 was accorded a like privilege. But in the case of the three Prairie Provinces, created since Confederation out of the territory acquired by purchase for the Dominion from the Hudson's Bay Company, the title to the public or ungranted lands has up to the present time been retained by the Government of Canada, for the benefit of the whole Dominion.

Complex System.

The merits of this policy do not call for discussion here. It is sufficient for our present purpose to note that it has given to British Columbia a much more elastic and more complex revenue system than that of her sister provinces of the Canadian West. The only Dominion grant in lieu of lands received by British Columbia is $100,000 against lands in the railway belt, and the whole Dominion subsidy is absolutely smaller, and relatively to the total Provincial revenue very much smaller than in the case of the Prairie Provinces. Taking the estimates for the current year, it amounts to only 6.3 per cent. of the revenue of British Columbia, as against approximately 23.4 per cent. in Alberta and Saskatchewan, if we exclude telephone receipts.

Elasticity is certainly a desirable characteristic of a good revenue system. "A good system of taxation," says Nicholson, "ought to provide for a self-acting increase in the revenue in proportion as wealth and population and the consequent demands of governmental expenditure increase." And, from this standpoint, the income tax is a most convenient constituent of any system of taxation. But an elastic revenue system, and in particular one that grows by leaps and bounds in times of prosperity through the exploitation of the public domain, may not be an unmixed blessing in the absence of sound principles of public expenditure. And if there is one lesson to be learned from the history of provincial and municipal finance in Western Canada it is the eternal truth of Gladstone's dictum: "Good finance consists more in the spending than in the collecting of revenue."

Provide Difficulty.

All over the West are to be seen striking examples of the hasty and ill-considered expenditure of public funds, generally in the way of provision for the needs of a remote and uncertain future. Public utilities have been constructed, and improvements carried out. To discount the future at low rate is the characteristic mark of the provident individual or community. But it is clearly possible for public bodies—and it is remarkable how prone they are when dealing with the funds of the taxpayers—to discount the future at a rate altogether too low.

It must be admitted, however, that in British Columbia the situation of the Provincial Government is difficult and the demands on its discretion by the matter of expenditure peculiarly great. The Government is itself directly responsible for the administration of the immense unorganized territory, including all but a very small fraction of the area of the Province. The public lands, timber, mines, and now also the fisheries, are under its direct control. In a province so vast and mountainous, with widely scattered settlements and mining camps, it is clear that the finance of administration is a serious problem. To provide the most rudimentary means of communication and transport alone involves immense outlay; and the Provincial Government has already built and maintains some 20,000 miles of road, and that in a country where road making is notoriously expensive. If then it has great resources at its disposal, it has also heavy financial responsibilities. In general it may be said that the need of expenditure grows more rapidly than the available revenue.

Re-Consideration Necessary.

In his conclusions Dr. Clark says: "A survey of the provincial and municipal revenue systems of Western Canada leads inevitably to the following conclusions: (1) That there is urgent need for a reconsideration of the principles governing the relations between the tax systems of the province and the municipality. Under the present system the municipalities have to face a steady increase in the number and expensiveness of the functions for the performance of which they are responsible, functions often of general rather than strictly local benefit, while at the same time the provinces are encroaching in an ominous manner on the field of taxation formerly reserved by tacit consent for the exclusive use of the municipalities." (2) That a comprehensive scheme is required for broadening the basis of municipal taxation so as to distribute the burden more widely over the different classes of the community, with due regard to the generally accepted principles of ability to pay and benefit received.

Under the present system, the burden of local taxation in the urban municipalities is concentrated to a dangerous degree on the owners of real estate, and in particular falls with crushing weight on the owners of vacant land.

Liability of Unused Lands.

Unimproved land in the urban municipalities of Western Canada has been for years, in most cases, a burdensome liability, or an asset disappearing under a process of gradual but generally rapid confiscation in the guise of taxation. The system prevailing on this continent whereby real property is assessed for taxation on its capital value, instead of—as in Great Britain—on the annual yield or rent, appears to have the approval of the majority of American economists. But in that approval the present writer certainly cannot concur. It is no doubt true that, in general, taxation of property is merely a form of assessment, the payment being actually met out of income. But the tax is not always proportional to income; and in the case of undeveloped or imperfectly developed urban building sites it is clear that a tax on capital value is a tax on something out of all proportion to the annual value.

It is of course claimed that this is one of the chief merits of the system, that it strikes that unearned increment-eating parasite, the speculator who is holding the land out of use and thriving by the industry of others. But even if speculation in land were the unmixed evil it is popularly supposed to be, it cannot be prevented by an annual tax on land value that falls short of confiscation; for the purchaser, once the tax is imposed, will secure the land for a price less than it otherwise would be by the amount of the capitalized value of the tax and of any expected rise therein, and has thus a good speculative investment. Nor is an annual tax on capital value a reliable and effective way of securing for the municipality a share in the unearned increment if any; for the present holder, in the price he paid for the land, has in most cases been compelled by competition to include the discounted value of any expected rise in value. And that such expectations tend to be overvalued by every man who, in Adam Smith's phrase, "is intolerant of health and spirits" is a truth that has surely found only too abundant illustration in Western Canada. Thus the increment in value, and when it comes, is not to the present owner unearned. Whether the unearned increment in land value should be taxed while other unearned increments are exempt is matter for deliberation. If so, it can be more effectively done when the land changes hands, under a system in which the ordinary taxation of land is based on the annual income therefrom. Income is a fairer measure than property of the ability or faculty of the taxpayer. It should be observed, however, that it by no means follows that income from real property should be taxed, for local purposes, only at the same rate as other species of revenue; for the owners of real property are in a special degree the beneficiaries of local expenditure, and in local taxation the principle of benefit received cannot be ignored.

Sound System Wanted.

The substitution of annual-rental value for capital value, as the basis of assessment for the real property tax, is no doubt impracticable while the urban municipalities of Western Canada are burdened to the extent they at present are with debenture debt, borrowed on the security of tax revenues largely derived from unimproved property. But it is none the less an essential step towards a really sound system of municipal taxation—an ideal to be aimed at, the attainment of which may be not so distant as it at present seems. The system of taxing real property

NABOB

on its capital value, is, at its best, too apt to result in unintentional injustices, especially in the taxation of unimproved land, and at its worst, in the hands of ignorant and unscrupulous faddists, it is too easily made the instrument of a policy which subordinates the elementary principles of equity and sound finance to the pursuit of some popularly desired social end, and which, in times of financial need especially, is fraught with the gravest injustice to a defenceless minority.

But no community, whether the nation, the Province or the municipality, can sanction a system of taxation which violates the rules of elementary honesty and fair dealing, without in the long run paying a heavy price for its transgression.

Gross inequity inevitably lessens or destroys the productivity of a tax. Witness the "tax delinquency" of Western Canada and the accumulation of arrears of taxes. The same considerations that make it in the interest of a municipality to keep faith with its debenture holders make it also, in the long run if not so immediately, in its interest to observe as far as possible the principle of equality in the treatment of its taxpayers. Here again good morality is ultimately good economy.

An Important Letter

BRAMPTON, ONT.—"About five years ago I began suffering with woman's trouble. I became run-down, weak and nervous. I was so completely down and out that I could not do anything, could scarcely dress myself. I had the doctor and took other medicine but without getting better until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery. It was only necessary for me to take about three bottles when I was completely restored to health and strength and I have been in better health than I ever was before. I have had no use for medicine since, but should I need it, I would take these same remedies, knowing them to be excellent."—MRS. HARRY KNIGHT, Jessie Street.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a non-alcoholic remedy that any ailing woman can safely take because it is prepared from roots and herbs containing tonic properties of the most pronounced character. It is not a secret remedy for its ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper.

Get the 'Favorite Prescription' to-day either in liquid or tablet form or send Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for large trial package tablets.

The Advertisement Which Will Interest Every Reader

has yet to be written, but in every family and particularly where there are children, the subject of good household remedies for the many minor ailments and injuries of everyday life always commands attention.

PERRY DAVIS' "PAINKILLER" is one of the best examples of a reliable household remedy.

In summer a teaspoonful given in a cup of sweetened water or milk affords prompt and effective treatment for acute and painful stomach and bowel attacks (summer complaint), while as a liniment it takes the pain and inflammation out of mosquito and other insect stings and reduces sprains and bruises.

In cold weather when exposure so often brings on the chilly feeling from which develop Colds, Bronchitis, La Grippe or Pneumonia, a good dose of "PAINKILLER" taken in hot water when retiring will usually ward off these dangerous consequences.

A most effective treatment for children who are inclined to bronchial and croupy attacks is to wrap out a flannel cloth dipped into a cupful of hot water to which a teaspoonful of "PAINKILLER" has been added and wrap same around the child's neck, covering with another cloth. This applied at night whenever signs of a croupy attack appears, draws out the inflammation and the soothing warmth insures restful sleep.

PERRY DAVIS' "PAINKILLER" has been on the market for over seventy-five years. It is used in nearly every country on the globe by thousands of families of every race for the purposes described above.

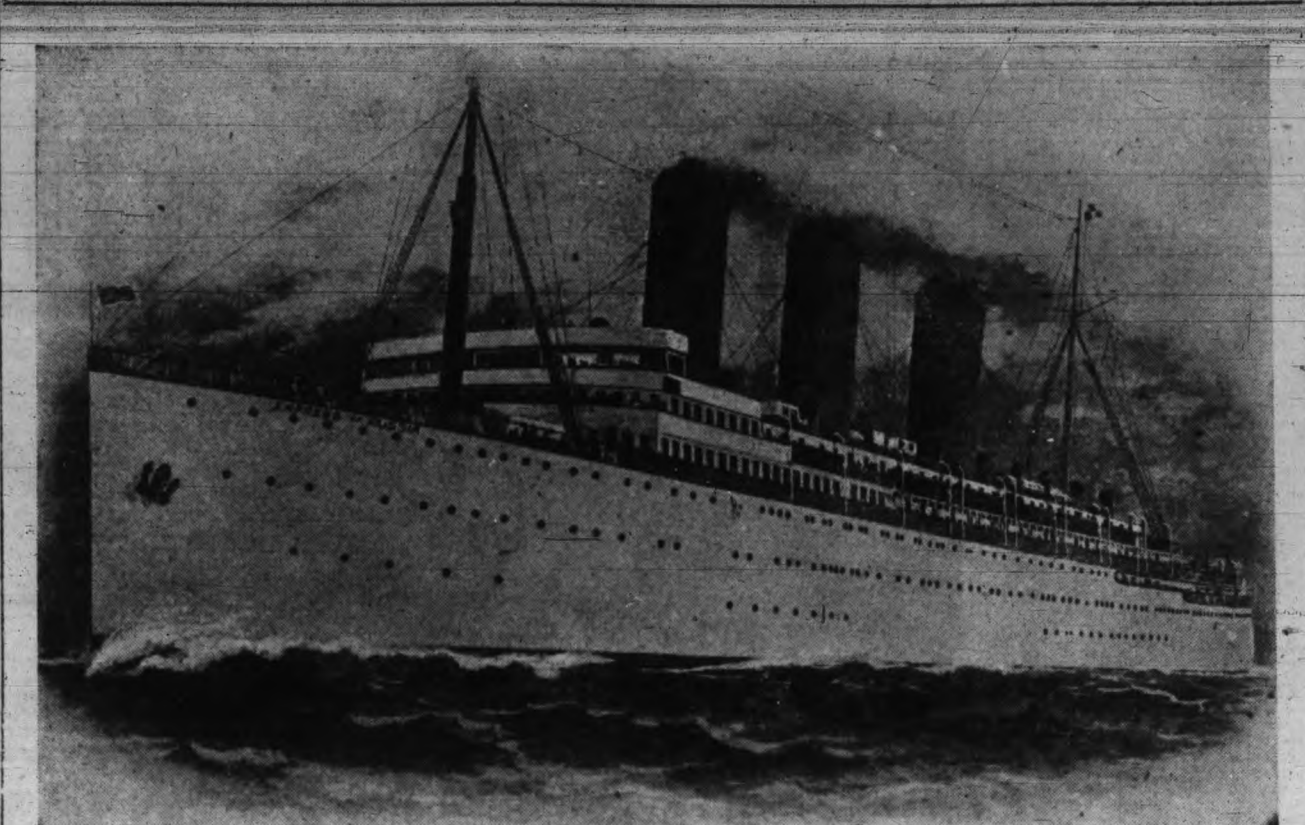

Every family and every traveller will do well to have always on hand a bottle of this reliable household medicinal preparation.

CRACK C. P. O. S. LINER MAKING FAST TIME

R. M. S. EMPRESS OF RUSSIA

At 4:20 o'clock this morning the inbound Empress of Russia spoke the Estevan Station, giving her position as approximately 1,250 miles out from Victoria at 8 o'clock last night. Twenty-four hours previously the liner gave her position as 1,800 miles out. If the positions were given correctly, and the wireless these days can be relied upon to give accurate information, the Empress of Russia logged over five hundred miles for the day ending at 8 o'clock last night. The liner has a full list of saloon passengers and is expected to berth here early Monday morning.

SUBSIDY REVISION BY JANUARY NEXT

Nippon Yusen Kaisha First of Japanese Lines to Come Under New Agreement

The proposed supersession of Japanese shipping subsidies by payment for the carriage of mails is favored by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, and it is reported that when the new arrangement is made the N. Y. K. will make a sweeping readjustment of its shipping lines.

So far as the Nippon Yusen Kaisha is concerned, the Japanese authorities have already informally decided to make the new arrangements effective January, 1921, as the subsidy contracts with the company in regard to the European, North Pacific and Australian lines, expire December 31, 1920.

At present, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha obtains a subsidy of $1,000,000 for the European, North Pacific and Australian services; the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, $500,000 for the trans-Pacific route and $27,000 for the South Seas route, and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, $600,000 for the San Francisco route and $150,000 for the South American run. In addition, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Nishin Kisen Kaisha each maintains a subsidized service of lesser importance.

In the case of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the subsidy contracts are good until January, 1922, and it is not expected that any change will be made to the subsidy arrangements in regard to these companies for the present, the proposed new departure being confined to the N. Y. K.

The question of abolishing the present subsidy system became an issue during the last special session of the Japanese Diet. The authorities were generally agreed as to the advisability of abolishing the system, says the Japanese Advertiser, but the trouble was that, if the step was taken, it would no longer be possible for the Government to exercise effective control over the Japanese merchant marine, as the shipping companies would be relieved of the Government restrictions to which they are subject under the subsidy system.

For fear of losing control over the merchant marine, the authorities postponed taking action on the proposed abolition of the subsidy system.

The new Merchant Marine Act of America, however, has had the effect of reviving the proposal. The subsidization of Japanese ships means a sort of discrimination against foreign shipping, and some Japanese ship-owners take the view that unless the subsidy system of the country is abolished, Japanese shipping men cannot with good grace protest against the stipulations of the American law which in their eyes constitutes discrimination against Japanese vessels. Nor are British ship-owners pleased with the Japanese subsidy system, and under the circumstances the Japanese authorities think it advisable to obliterate the "subsidy."

The problem, as to how official control should be exercised on the merchant ships of the country remains to be solved, and the matter is now engaging the serious attention of the authorities.

Mr. Johnson will proceed to the northern countries of South America and thence to San Francisco.

LESS STEEL FROM STATES BEING USED IN BRITISH YARDS

New York, Nov. 5.—(By Canadian Press.)—Ship steel shipments from New York to England have almost ceased. Captains of ships returning from Glasgow report that "Yankee" ships are no longer laying new keels in the U.S. as soon as a ship has been launched. This is due partly to labor conditions and difficulty of getting materials, and largely because of the great number of cancellations of orders that British shipyards have received during recent weeks. It is understood that, owing to their lower labor costs, continental yards are quoting lower on ship-repair contracts than British yards.

C.P.R. MAY CHANGE TO COAL BURNERS

Steps Being Taken to Meet Shortage of Oil Fuel; Locomotives and Ships Affected

In view of the increasing scarcity of fuel oil the Canadian Pacific Railway is seriously considering reverting to coal for its locomotives. This, it is understood, also applies to the company's coastwise steamships, a large number of which are equipped for the consumption of oil fuel. Officials of the C. P. R. admit they are not going to be caught napping, and admit that consideration has already been taken as to future action should the fuel oil situation become worse.

The Union Oil Company has a contract to supply the company with oil until the end of the year and is of the opinion that it can still continue to keep the company supplied after that. In view of the uncertainty, however, C. P. R. men are making arrangements which if the oil company can not live up to expectations they will be enabled to carry on with a minimum of inconvenience.

The P. G. E. is also preparing for the worst. General manager Buckworth forestalled a scarcity of oil by placing in big reserves recently, an action for which he is now congratulating himself as the price of fuel oil was jumped $1 a barrel yesterday. The company has four locomotives that it can immediately convert to coal burners. It is likely that this will be done without delay and arrangements made to change over the remainder should it be necessary.

The C. P. R. is fortunately situated for changing its oil-burners to coal-burners without inconvenience, as it has all the equipment in hand. The company has 221 locomotives in the British Columbia district, of which 136 are oil burners. Between North Bend and Kamloops the company uses only coal burners. This is because coal is easily obtained over the line from Merritt to Spence's Bridge, and also for the reason that it keeps the mines at Merritt operating steadily.

The C. P. R. has no big reserve of oil on hand and officials look with apprehension on the danger of suddenly being cut off from oil supplies through bad weather or accident to the oil tankers that ply to Vancouver. Oil was adopted on the C. P. R. system several years ago in British Columbia principally owing to the great danger of fire in the timber districts through which the line passes. Since oil has been used there has been a marked decrease of fires from locomotive sparks. None of the fires in the timber, officials of the company state, have been traced to oil-burning locomotives.

QUARANTINE LAWS HAVE BEEN AMENDED

No Compulsory Inspection For Vessels Plying to American Pacific Ports

Shipping companies in British Columbia and agents of shipping lines have been advised that the United States quarantine regulations have been amended so that vessels whose voyages originate in British Columbia and end at Pacific coast ports as far south as San Francisco, are not required to procure United States consular bills on departure from British Columbia ports nor undergo quarantine inspection on arrival at their destination. The amendment stands in force as long as British Columbia has no quarantinable disease. This departure brings the United States quarantine regulations, as affecting the coast, in line with the Canadian regulations. For years past vessels coming to British Columbia ports from United States ports on the Pacific seaboard, have not been required to undergo quarantine inspection.

GIVENCHY'S CAT HAD CHILLY EXPERIENCE

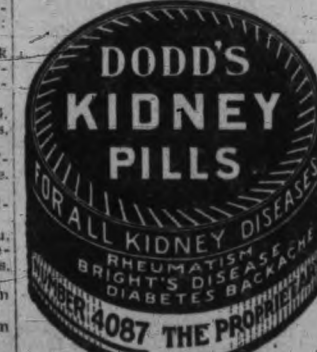

Vancouver, Nov. 5.—The crabs that inhabit that portion of the waterfront lying just east of Pier D were frightened seriously Wednesday night by a loud wail of feline terror, and a splashing in the waters. The ship's cat of the fishery patrol, steamer Givenchy had been so anxious to get ashore and sample the Vancouver wharf rats that it had missed its step on the landing ladder and fallen into the cold and chilly water. Captain, officers and entire crew bent all energies to rescue, and hauled out the dripping Martha at the passing of the eighth life, but still spluttering damp, salty protests.

This incident was the only stirring episode of the present voyage of the government ship, which has been on the north mainland coast and among the Queen Charlotte Islands, Captain Laird reported a good voyage. The inhabitants of the Queen Charlotte Islands were getting ready for the winter blanketing of fogs, and the seals in the waters among the northern rocks were in good shape and large numbers.

The Givenchy will be in port until next week, and will then go north again, returning in time to permit the crew to cast their votes in the provincial election.

It is expected that about twenty delegates from Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver and other points will be present. The meeting will be at the Empress Hotel.

MELBOURNE PLANS BIG HARBOR DEVELOPMENT

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 5.—(By Canadian Press.)—The Melbourne Harbor Trust Commissioners have decided to proceed with a programme of comprehensive pier development which was adopted in 1915, but which was interrupted by war conditions.

The Harbor Trust's plan will provide for the expansion of Melbourne's commerce for the next fifty years, but the work contemplated at present will be confined to four new docks adjoining the existing Victoria dock. These are expected to take care of the port's traffic for the next ten years to come. They will cost 6,000,000 pounds sterling.

The new docks will have a water depth of 32 feet. The Victoria dock will also be extended.

Subsequently, as circumstances require, six docks will be constructed at Port Melbourne with depths of water to 37 feet. They will have a common entrance involving the creation of a new large basin for the sea. With the completion of the scheme Melbourne will have one of the best harbors in the world.

TAXATION.

To the Editor:—It seems almost impossible to read all the letters and articles on the difficulties of raising money for our various Government needs when I suppose nine men out of ten know very well that the trouble is simply that at present probably 10 per cent. of the population carry all the load in order that the politicians may catch the votes of the other 90 per cent. The proportion may not be exactly correct but it is near enough for the purpose. I suppose this will continue until some man with more independence than the rest will come forward with a fair scheme of a minimum income tax (a dollar a month) on everyone, man or woman, boy or girl earning over $50 a month to be collected by the Provincial Government through the employers and a "pro rata" proportion remitted to the municipalities.

Anyone paying any other public tax or license fee would be given credit against same to the extent of their income tax. Of course there will be opposition to it by the wage-earner but why (except for vote-catching) should the man or woman who get their income paid regularly in wages be taxed in the upshot of this way more than the storekeeper or professional man who make many bad debts.

I suppose the young men or women who push the typewriter or teach in school for a modest $30 or $120 a month and put their money in the savings bank have as much self-respect as those who are in the upshot of their own town and country as those who invest it in real estate. Then how can they conscientiously object to this modest contribution to the general expenses. They do not expect their tennis club, or their golf club, or even their unions, to be run without their subscriptions. I venture to think it would be possible to find families with a father averaging $5 a day and probably three or more children living at home averaging $15 a month each and not one paying a cent in taxes to any government beyond what we all have to pay indirectly through house rent or general commercial taxes. And yet we hear the clapping against class legislation. Could there be worse class legislation than the present system.

FAIR PLAY.

PRICE OF WHEAT.

To the Editor:—In last night's Times you give a report from Winnipeg under the heading "Canadian Farmers Get an Average of $2.50 For Wheat."

There appears to be some mistake in the figures given. We are told that the price of No. 1 Northern will be $2.62 at Fort William, or an average of $2.50 at points of shipment. In prairie provinces. This is estimating the cost of shipment to Fort William at 12 cents. This is far below the average cost of shipment. The average must be at least 18 cents a bushel.

Then we are told that the total dividend on participation certificates will be 48 cents a bushel.

As the dividend the Wheat Board are supposed to pay are 30 cents and 10 cents respectively, it is evident that there is another mistake of 8 cents a bushel.

But the greatest puzzle to me is how the estimate of total amount to be paid in participation certificates is arrived at. We are told that the Board has paid $28,000,000, and that it is hoped the balance of $28,000,000 will be paid before the end of the year, a total of $56,000,000.

As I have no means of checking the accuracy of these figures, I can only take them as being correct. But if 30 cents a bushel produces $56,000,000, a further payment of 10 cents a bushel certainly cannot bring this amount to $84,000,000, as given in the report. There appears to be a mistake of $28,000,000 in this.

As I have some interest in wheat growing with your permission I wish to give some facts regarding wheat prices.

GEORGE CLARK TO RUN FOR ISLANDS

Former Head of United Farmers Is Choice of Conservative Convention

George Clark, of Sidney, former president of the United Farmers of B. C., was nominated as the Conservative candidate for the Gulf Islands at the party convention at Mahon Hall, Ganges Harbor, yesterday afternoon. His name was the only one put before the convention. The meeting was not well attended and supporters of M. B. Jackson, K. C., made their presence known.

"The Oliver Government is doomed," said W. J. Bowser, K. C., Conservative leader, who attended the convention.

"This is a farmers' district and I am glad to see the time coming when it will be represented by a farmer, not by a lawyer."

Mr. Bowser said that the Premier is reluctant to say anything about his proposed liquor bill.

"For my part, I favor a moderate bill one that will not infringe upon the rights of citizens of a free country," Mr. Bowser went on. "The old-time conditions, however, have gone, not to return, again."

Talks on Liquor: Mr. Bowser said that he is willing to meet deputations from the prohibitionists and moderate nationalists and to consider every idea put forward.

"As for the liquor itself, only the best should be put on sale," he added. "And the margin of profit should be as small as possible. Certainly, it should not be an extravagant profit."

Mr. Clark announced himself as a Conservative farmer. He said that he had been asked to run as an independent candidate and to run for the returned soldiers, but he had declined both, to support the Conservative policy to the fullest measure of his ability.

Mr. Fletcher and H. Coldwell, both of Salt Spring Island, placed the name of Mr. Clark before the convention. They explained that he has been farming at Patricia Bay for years and has also been president of the Sidney Conservative Association.

J. T. Collins, of Ganges, presided. Statuette grotes of vast extent and exceptional beauty have been discovered in the neighborhood of Brunn, Moravia.

was on the basis of $2.15 for No. 1 Northern at Fort William.

All grades under this to be so much less, according to grade. We were fortunate enough to have wheat that graded No. 1 Northern, and for this the Wheat Board paid us $1.97, this being the $2.15, less 15 cents for charges to Fort William.

We have not got one cent more for our wheat yet. We were told that on July 15 a payment of 30 cents a bushel would be made, and we forwarded our certificates, but we have not received any payment yet.

Your report says it is hoped that these payments will be made before the end of the year. We certainly hope that they will. We are not told when we may expect payment of the final 15 cents a bushel.

In the meantime farmers have to borrow money at the banks at exorbitant interest to cover harvest expenses, while the Wheat Board holds the farmers' money for wheat taken twelve months since.

And there are people who wonder how it is that farmers are not willing to go on in the good old way, and call themselves "Conservatives" or "Liberals," and because farmers have concluded that they ought to have some say about the price of the produce they raise, they are called Bolsheviki.

GEORGE DOBSON, Oak Bay, Nov. 2, 1920.

CADET TRAINING.

To the Editor:—In your report of the Central School's Parent-Teachers' Association, held on Monday, I am represented as having "voiced opposition to any military training in the schools." This is incorrect, as it is also a further statement to the effect that I was averse to any action tending to support military training in the schools.

What remarks I made were delivered in an endeavor to secure the withdrawal of a motion which I believed to be inappropriate and liable to misconception. The motion was one expressive of appreciation of the work of J. A. Cunningham, Principal of the Boys' Central School, and those associated with him in the training of cadets and endorsing the system which obtains in the Central school. It was the latter clause in the motion to which I, along with others, took exception. It was that on which a difference of opinion developed. The question as to whether military training should, or should not, be given in the public schools was not directly at issue. The discussion resolved itself into one of whether the younger boys should be given cadet drill or those only who have reached the age of twelve years at the least.

Mr. Cunningham vehemently defended the former question, while Col. Winiby was equally strong in his support of the latter. Thus it was obvious, considering the dual nature of the motion, that it was not a matter of position of acute embarrassment in that a negative vote would of necessity imply disaffiliation with the work of Mr. Cunningham, a statement which I feel certain none having boys attending the Central School entertain, least of all the writer. I was and am, however, of the opinion that Mr. Edmondson's motion was ill-considered, to say the least; hence my plea for its withdrawal. Had it been put in the form of two distinct motions—the case would have been different.

As one who has witnessed the manoeuvres of the Central School Cadets at inspections and at other times, I should be the last to suggest that full credit should not be accorded those responsible for the high degree of efficiency displayed by the lads. One cannot, as a rule, withhold admiration where work is well performed, even although one might take exception to its means or ends. Although as already stated, I did not voice opposition to military training in the public schools at the meeting on Monday, yet I am free to confess to sharing the opinion of an increasing large body of public opinion which is averse to the inclusion of such training in the curricula of the schools, and which numbers among its adherents men and women who stand high in the councils of the nation—men and women whose patriotism none would dare dispute. It was this latter consideration which led me to mention the matter of opposition to cadet training. I was aware as the result of private discussion, that there existed a feeling of reticence on the part of some who cannot afford, for economic and other reasons, to face the surreptitious system of boycott which is alleged to be directed against many who are known to hold opinions antagonistic to the cadet system, and who are most unfortunately suspected of association with doctrines of a dangerous and subversive nature.

The question is too large to allow of further comment at this time. Let me conclude by suggesting that it is likely to become a live issue in the near future, both sides endeavoring to exhibit that spirit of sportsmanship which has been characteristic of the British masses for generations.

WORKING HIS WAY UP.

"Ah," said Mr. Oldboys thoughtfully, "no one can say that my brother Tom has not advanced. He began at the foot, but he has worked up to the head in a very short time."

"How's that?" asked his friend.

"Well, he was a chiropodist at first; but he gave it up in a few months and became a barber. I got off here. Good morning."

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts for Backache or Bladder Trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse the kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

VARIETY

It may interest those who see early Pickford in her United Artists Corporation production, "Suds," at the Variety Theatre, to know that the wonderful visions of broad meadows deep with grass, and the life of luxury and ease which Miss Pickford as Amanda Apple, the little laundry drudge, promises—Lavender, the decided old delivery horse, that she saves from the glue factory, actually happened to Lavender in real life.
During the filming of "Suds," Lavender adapted himself so readily to the screen work and acted so well, permitting so many indignities to his person, when the picture was finished Miss Pickford sent him to a large ranch near her Beverly Hills home, and there Lavender will spend his few declining years with nothing to do but take life easy and brag of his film experiences to his thoroughbred companions. The added feature of the Variety at this week is the great animal picture, "The Lost City."

PRINCESS

"Her Own Money," now playing at the Princess Theatre, is a comedy-drama which is excellent. The story deals with the problem of how to share the joint income of man and wife in the most practical way, and after much misunderstanding on the part of all three couples involved the snarl is finally unravelled and the usual popular ending is brought about in an interesting and highly pleasing manner. Any child up to the age of twelve years is invited to write a letter of criticism of the present play,
"Her Own Money," and send it to Miss Page. The best letter will receive $3; the next best $2, and the prizes will be given on the stage of the Princess at the Saturday matinee performance of "Polyanna," November 13. "Poly-anna" has been chosen to follow the present play, and "The Little Glad girl" is too well known to require much introduction or recommendation. "Polyanna" will begin Wednesday, and every lady who attends the first night performance of "Polyanna" will receive a souvenir
Money" continues the balance of the week, with the Saturday matinee.

ROYAL VICTORIA

It has remained for Marshall Neilan, the youthful director-genius of the motion picture industry, to bring forth a picture that would combine the elements of a deep scientific present-day question with a plot that holds human interest as its fundamental objective. This production is entitled "Go and Get It," a First National release and is probably different from anything ever before seen in Victoria. It will be shown at the Royal Victoria Theatre again tonight.

"Go and Get It," states that the production centres about the successful operation of a surgeon in transplanting the brain of a woman into the skull of a gorilla. The newspaper angle is related to the story by virtue of the fact that a newspaper reporter, with instructions of his city editor to "go and get it" is credited with the solving of the mystery.

Those who appear in the cast are:
Wesley Barry, Pat O'Malley, Agnes Ayres, J. Barney Sherry, C. Malles, Noah Beery, Bull Montana, Walter Long, Lydia Titus, George C. Drom-gold, Ashley Cooper and Charles West.

DOMINION

May Allison, the captivating Metro star, in "The Cheater," is the feature attraction at the Dominion Theatre.
The new photoplay is described as one of the sensations of the year, presenting Miss Allison in an intensely dramatic role.

"The Cheater" is a screen version of "Judah," the notable stage play by Henry Arthur Jones, also author of "The Silver King," "The Liars" and "Mrs. Dane's Defence." "Judah" was first played in London with E.
S. Willard in the title role.

The story of "The Cheater" deals with faith healing, and when it was produced in England it created a storm of discussion. The controversy resembled that now raging here over spiritualism and kindred topics.

Miss Allison's role is that of Lily

Meany, who, under the name of for effecting cures by faith. She knows she is a cheater, and when she faces the prospect of trying to cure the crippled sister of Judah, Lord Asgarby, she experiences a change of heart due to Judah's nobility and the simple faith of his little sister.

The drama of her redemption is said to have been developed with tremendous dramatic skill. King Bag-got, widely known for his work as a screen star, is cast as Judah. Others in the cast are Frank Currier, Harry Van Meter, Percy Challenger, May Geret and Lucille Ward. The drama was adapted for the screen by Lois Zellner and Henry Otto directed the production. W. M. Edmond photographed the picture with the most elaborate and executed the handsome interior settings. The production, one of Metro's "fewer and better" kind, was mounted lavishly.

PANTAGES

A musical comedy of the tabloid kind, with many features included that are usually only to be found in the fully-equipped road shows with large companies of three or four acts and half a dozen scenes, is "The Melody of Youth," the headline at Pantages Theatre this week. The production is the work of the Powell Troupe, a company of acrobats on the tight wire who are among the most skillful in vaudeville and who have a way of performing their feats in a sensational style. An interesting feature of this week's programme is the appearance of little Virginia Lea Corbin, said to be the youngest and most moving picture star, who sings and dances and also acts as she appears in some of her latest pictures.

"BROKEN BLOSSOMS"
ARTISTICALLY SHOWN

D. W. Griffith's Masterpiece Is Now Showing at Columbia

Based on a tragic tale of London's Chinatown, pictured as artistically as only Griffith can picture a story, "Broken Blossoms," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, is a heartbreakingly sad, inexpressibly beautiful fragment of screen poetry. It is only in poetry that the sordid, brutal phases of life can be seen through a glamor of beauty, and that is what literally occurs in this picture.

There is beauty of two kinds in this picture, the literal, visual beauty of the color effects and the beauty of the poetic soul which shines from the poetic soul of the hero, a young Chinaman, the beauty of his love for the abused little white girl, the fineness of which is stronger than the prize fighter's brutality, and which makes the tragedy bearable.

Plot and dramatic form are almost non-existent in the picture. It is an incident which is presented, in which only the influence are concerned, but the incident typifies the struggle between brutality and kindness everywhere in the world.

These three characters are marvelously well acted, and the pictures which tell their story are among the most beautiful ever seen, either on canvas or screen. G. W. Bitter, Mr.
Griffith's cameraman, has excelled himself in his photography, and then, by a new system whereby the screen itself is flooded with colored light, the pictures are given their own warmth and color. The effect is wonderful. It is a long step in advance in the art of motion photography.

RAINBOW COLORS IN "CHU CHIN CHOW"

When Leon Bakst designed the color and costume scheme for so many of the Diaghileff Russian Ballets and America gasped at the prodigious display of extravagant chromatics, it was unanimously agreed that the last word in applying the science of color to art had been reached. But all records have now been surpassed by the beautiful spectacular production of "Chu Chin Chow," which F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest will present at the Royal Victoria Theatre for five days and two matinees, commencing Tuesday night, Nov. 9.

The glories of "Chu Chin Chow" will reveal the rainbow-tinted prismatic spectacle that dazzles and delights the eye. It is the general verdict that the celebrated Leon Bakst has been fairly "out-Baksted" by an English competitor who has broken sufficiently away from the Russian influence to take advantage of the best art evolution of the centuries by Persia and China—in fact, the whole of the mysterious Orient which inspired Bakst.

Percy Anderson, the Englishman responsible for the riot of color in "Chu Chin Chow," has drawn upon every known color in his harmonious and wonderful effects in this mystic play of ancient Baghdad. The iridescent play of color throughout is, simply overwhelming; one thinks instinctively of Harlequins, of Joseph's coat of many colors, of chameleons, butterflies, peacocks, of opal-escents skies and setting suns—and one marvels how in the world the most exact designer of the century of the 40 costumes in this play, or evolved the fourteen brilliant settings in which the scenes are enacted.
The first scene showing the Palace of Kasim Baba in the Bagdad of a thousand years ago, is a vision in have conceived a more startling and striking background than the highest panels behind the black stair-hidden recess casts a vivid glow over the throne chair on which the gorge-

WONDERFUL RECITAL BY MOISEWITSCH

Monumental Programme Last Night Revealed Marvelous
Art of Pianist

Victoria was last evening privileged to hear for the first time a pianist who is destined to reach the highest pinnacle of musical fame and who, although still under thirty years of age, has reached a place among the foremost artists of the day. Benno Moiseiwitsch, in a programme which can only be described as monumental, roused a big audience at the Empress Hotel, and the climax of an exhausting performance the artist was induced to add two encores, so loath were his hearers to leave.

An outburst of the artists performance last evening was the quiet ease and freedom from mannerism which added to the impression that he and the instrument were absolutely in rapport. It is doubtful if any pianist since Paderewski has succeeded in creating such marvellous effects as did Moiseiwitsch last evening—his whole performance was a masterpiece of tone-color, poetry and finesse.

From the opening Bach Prelude to the "Spinning Wheel," the pianist revealed fluent and flawless technique, delicacy of touch, coupled with imaginative interpretation. At his happiest in the higher numbers, he excelled in the Schumann group of Carnaval scenes and it is as an interpreter of these composers that greatness lies ahead of him. Twenty scenes which included such dainty numbers as Pierrot, Coquette, Papillons, and the Valse Allemande, closing with the imposing March of David against the Philistines, disclosed the whole gamut of the artist's wonderful equipment, elegant style and romantic interpretation.

The Rachmaninoff Prelude in B.
Minor, a Stravinsky Etude, three little numbers by Palmgren, and the Debussy Toccata, all played with wonderful ease and grace, were brilliant technique, while the final group of Chopin and Liszt compositions rounded out a programme which defied criticism and won an appreciative audience away imbued with the hope that Moiseiwitsch's first recital in Victoria will not be his last.

COMING TO DOMINION.

Stage settings of unusual beauty are assured in any photoplay containing Cecil B. De Mille's name and "Something To Think About," the Paramount picture which will be shown at the Dominion Theatre next week easily reaches the highest standard set by previous De Mille productions.

But "Something To Think About" has, in addition to several stage settings of remarkable beauty, some of the most realistic background of the humbler sort ever seen in a motion picture production.

The story offers a great opportunity for contrast and due advantage has been taken of every opportunity. In this production, has been supplied a humble blacksmith's home, his workshop and the poverty-stricken apartment wherein some of

Prominent Western Man Praises Tanlac

G. W. Logan, Peabody, Kansas

"Tanlac has completely restored my health and I feel finer than in years." was the straightforward statement made recently by George W. Logan, of Peabody, Kansas, one of the most prominent stock-dealers in the Middle West.

"It has not only made a new man of me but I have actually gained thirty-five pounds in weight and feel as well as I ever did in my life.
I am telling all of my friends about Tanlac, but they can see for themselves what it has done in my case.
"When I began taking Tanlac I was in an awfully run-down condition. I was away off in weight, felt weak and nervous all of the time and couldn't take any interest in my work or anything else. My main trouble was indigestion. Nothing seemed to agree with me. At times I would have dizzy spells and at other times my back would ache so bad that I could hardly get up and down in my chair. This is just the condition I was in when I started to take this medicine. It took just six bottles to make a well man of me.

I now have a fine appetite, everything tastes good and my digestion is perfect."

"My wife was also troubled with indigestion at times and it relieved her the same way. You may publish my statement wherever you like, and if anyone doubts it, just tell them to see me."

"Tanlac is sold in Victoria by D. E.
Campbell, corner Fort and Douglas, and Lang's Drug Store, Esquimaux Road."

WILL LEAVE STAFF TO SET EXAMINATIONS

Senate Shows Confidence in Victoria College Management

Although the University faculty has the right to set the Christmas examinations of Victoria College, which is an affiliated institution, the senate of the University at its meeting on Wednesday night decided to waive this privilege in favor of the Victoria staff.

In asking the senate to support the resolution in favor of the proposal, Dean Coleman said that owing to the difficulty in securing uniform text books, and also to the large number of papers that will have to be marked in Vancouver, the members of the faculty of arts and sciences would be overburdened were they to attempt to set and examine the papers for Victoria students.

"We have every confidence in the Victoria staff and I feel sure that this will work out to our mutual advantage," he said.

Principal A. B. Paul, of Victoria College, who was present, thanked the members for the confidence placed in the capital city instructors. It would be, he felt, a very satisfactory method. A record of the results for each student will be sent to the registrar of the University, who will have on file a complete record of all the students when they enroll to take their third and fourth year courses.

Dr. Clay also expressed the appreciation of Victoria for the honor paid to the college staff.

A committee will be named by the president to deal with a number of other matters of detail in connection with the working of the two bodies.

There is nothing that acts so quickly in such cases as Vinol, it enriches the blood, quickens the circulation, sharpens the appetite and imparts strength and energy to every part of the body.

Your druggist sells Vinol, therefore men who are over-worked, run-down and blood-poor should accept no substitute. Mr. McDougall, of Cape Breton, N. S., says: "I am a farmer and was over-worked, run-down and weak. My druggist recommended VINOL. I built me up and made me strong. I also gained in flesh. Other members of my family have also used it with splendid results."

FIND DIRECTION OF ROAD WORK

TOO HEAVY BURDEN

The Saanich Councillors Now Overseeing Municipal Workmen

After a heated and lengthy debate, an effort to secure the re-instatement of Road Superintendent Girling, by the Saanich Council was last night abandoned when a vote of the works committee showed an even split.

"Unless we have a man in the service of Saanich, who can advise us as to road costs, we are going to have much trouble with our ward work," said Councillor Henderson last night, when asking the works committee to consider how best to handle five road gangs.

Councillor Graham suggested a general foreman be appointed for the balance of the year.

Councillor Terrell suggested that ex-Road Superintendent Girling should be re-instated. Councillor Pim objected, and Councillor Dooley then formally moved for that course, asking as he did so, "why was Mr. Girling discharged?"

As mover of the motion to dispense with the road superintendent, Councillor Clark said his action was based solely on economy.

A Valuable Servant. Councillor Dooley recited various results accruing to Saanich through road paving inventions, which Mr. Girling had freely allowed the municipality to use. "Instead of Mr. Girling being an expense, I believe he has saved this municipality thousands of dollars as a result of only a cent-a-gallon on streets paved with his oil and asphalt inventions would have amounted to $2,065." He showed several other items where Saanich had greatly profited, the total being $3,650.

"I want you, gentlemen, therefore to reconsider your decision regarding Mr. Girling. A competent man, there are a number of drosses in various wards who apparently want his job," he said, claiming that several of the councillors had been pressed to discharge him by disgruntled ratepayers.

Call for Applications. Councillor Clark said, there had been criticism, and the best way to handle the matter was to invite applications and leave the matter to the incoming council, as the ward appropriations were already expended and no funds were available.

In addition, he maintained that the small amount of work remaining to be done this year a road superintendent was not necessary. "On these grounds I cannot see my way to support re-instatement," he said, concluding with a criticism of the way the councillors had supervised ward expenditures.

After protesting against this criticism as unwarranted, Councillor Terrell said, "a man who can do such work as Shelbourne Street, a better street than any contract job, a man who has saved us much money, is good enough for this municipality, and I hope you will re-instate Mr. Girling."

Admits Mistake Made. Councillor Brooks said, "while I voted for Mr. Girling's discharge, considering the councillors could supervise their own roads, I find we were mistaken, I find it is impossible. We must have some one to advise us."

"I personally have found Mr. Girling conscientious and understanding his work. My foreman speaks highly of him. The ratepayers of Ward Six at the last meeting were strongly in his favor. I will support Mr. Girling, and I think if the municipality cannot afford to keep him it is getting pretty badly off."

Reeve Watson considered the whole discussion out of order and liable to tie up proceedings, when the works committee report was before the council for adoption.

Council Henderson said, "It is a poor and wasteful policy to do without a superintendent."

An Even Split. On motion that the committee recommend the council re-instate Mr. Girling, four votes were registered on each side of the question. Councillors Dooley, Terrell, Brooks and Henderson favored re-instatement, and Reeve Watson and Councillors Pim, Graham and Clark were against. Reeve Watson making special note that his vote was simply against a recommendation being made.

A sequel to the granting of a month's vacation to Mr. Girling is the direct supervision by the Saanich Council of authorized roadwork. Each undertaking now carries instructions to some particular foreman to perform the tasks required, even the operating of the tractor, being directed from the council table.

platform, but I am the pioneer of them all," said Reginald Hayward, "I came here at birth."

"Like Old Times."

"This meeting to-night is like old times," said Senator Barnard, speaking while the votes were being counted. "It reminds me of the good old days when Sir Richard McBride was leading the Conservative party in British Columbia, when all he had to do was to issue the call, smile and the trick was done."

"Some of us won what we thought was a victory on October 20. We are now going to have another victory, and that is of those who believe in good Government, economical Government for this country."

"I believe the dark days following the collapse of the boom and the darker days of the war are over. I think that the day has come when the Government should see that capital coming from the outside to aid in the development of this Province should be protected. The people who send their money here for investment have got to feel that they are safe from the

WHEN HE WAS STRUCK

Taxi-Driver Now Has W. F. Drysdale in Court For Damages

W. F. Drysdale, of 1633 North Park Street, appeared before Judge Lampman to-day on the complaint of Neil Elliott, McKay, a taxi driver, that Mr. Drysdale through indulging in fast driving and driving on the wrong side of the street, collided with the McKay taxi. Mr. McKay, through his attorney, J. A. Alkman, is trying to recover $207.80 damages. Spencer T. Hankey is defending Mr. Drysdale.

Mr. McKay swore that he was going north on Douglas Street, "just idling along" at the intersection of Douglas and Government Streets at the Fountain, when Mr. Drysdale was coming the opposite way at about 20 miles an hour.

"All of a sudden he started to cross the street car tracks in front of me and jumped his speed up to 35 miles an hour," Mr. McKay went on.

"He hit me as he dragged me along the pavement."

Others telling the story to the Judge include: Walter Alkman, John Higgins and John A. Carlier. Mr. Hankey placed Victor Reggie Carver in the box in the defence of Mr. Drysdale.

The case is proceeding this afternoon.

WOMAN OF SIXTY-SIX ELECTED TO STATE CONGRESS

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 5.—For the second time, a woman will sit in the House of Representatives at Washington, after Democrats to-day conceded the election of Miss Alice M. Robertson, 66, Republican candidate for Congress from the second district.

Miss Jeanette M. Rankin, of Montana, was the first woman elected to Congress. She was elected in 1916.

Miss Robertson is a pioneer. She was born near here, where her father was a missionary to the Indians. President Wilson appointed Miss Robertson as postmaster.

Miss Robertson was active in State politics. She was vice-president of the State Anti-Suffrage Association before statehood. She was also active in opposing suffrage until the Susan B. Anthony amendment was adopted.

During the war she operated a canteen here, where soldiers and sailors were given meals free.

"You're quite up-to-date here; you've got a jazz band on the premises?" "Oh, what you can hear is the lady on the top floor, smashing some crockery over her husband's head, while the occupant of the flat beneath is having a little revolver practice through the window at the cat."

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE MINES

McAllister Mine.

One of the mining properties that will be served by the road being built from Three Forks up the north fork of Carpenter Creek is the McAllister, from which the road is now about a mile distant. Hitherto the McAllister has had to pack out its ore for shipment.

A surface lead on the McAllister, exposed for about 100 feet, has lately been opened up, and is said to look very promising. It is between two porphyry dykes, and is believed to be a continuation of the property's principal veins.

Gasoline Evaporation.

The United States Bureau of Mines announces that preventable losses from evaporation of gasoline from crude petroleum, from the time it is pumped out of the wells until it arrives at the refineries, reach a total of more than 250,000,000 gallons annually. Experts of the bureau assert that this is sufficient to keep 1,200,000 automobiles in commission for a year if each car uses 250 gallons of gasoline.

Millie Mack.

Against a season for rawhiding, the Millie Mack mine at Burton, the oldest shipper on the Arrow lakes, is piling up ore for shipment to the smelter, according to word from Nakusp, B. C. Foster, who is operating the property has got from 20 to 50 tons of high grade ore set aside from the drift that is the scene of present operations.

In the early days George McDonald located the Millie Mack, and it changed hands during the boom days of Kootenay mining. It has been operated for about 20 years. Its ore is silver gold, with the silver running high.

Rosland Camp.

Rosland camp, at one time British Columbia's leader in metalliferous production, continues quiet, with a few men working at the various Consolidated properties and a crew of leasers at the Velvet, several miles from town. The leasers are reported to be doing well. Rosland's hopes for the immediate future center very largely upon action taken by Consolidated to begin construction of the lower grade ore of the camp. Plans for something of this kind are already well advanced, it is said, and the site selected will be the Heinze ranch, which lies above Trail. It appears as hardly likely, in view of the high cost of materials and machinery, that the big consolidation will be inclined to commence construction immediately.

Spider may go on Shipping.

Shipment of ore from the Spider mine will be carried on this winter in all probability and if the Winter mine development shows up an ore tonnage equal to three times what is in sight now, a mill will be working on the property next July.

That is the statement of W. A. Meloche, managing engineer of the mine.

JUDGE APPEARS

Mr. Justice Gregory Steps into Breach and Temporarily Relieves Shortage.

The shortage of Supreme Court judges from which Victoria has been suffering this week, was temporarily relieved suddenly this afternoon, when Mr. Justice Gregory appeared at the Court House to hold chambers. He is hearing only the most pressing of applications, however.

All other cases will have to stand over until Monday when Vancouver has consented to send over Mr. Justice Macdonald to handle the accumulation of Chamber business.

MEAT AND GET THIN

This is turning an old saying face about, but modern means of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat; opposed to physical exertion; fond of the tube and the good things, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, go to your drug store and write to the Marmola Co., 50 Gardiner Building, Detroit, Mich., and give him (or send them) your name, the identifying number on a box of Marmola's Prescription Tablets compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription; take one of these pleasant candy tablets after each meal, at bed time, and you will lose your fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week.

Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola's Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but positively beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercise to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that baby flesh will quickly take on itself wings, leaving behind in your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO GROWTH OF CANADA

Fine Study of Dominion Issued by Bankers Trust Company of New York

"The Land of Achievement" is what the Bankers Trust Company, of New York, terms Canada in a study devoted to the resources, the trade, the financial and the physical development of the Dominion, which has just been published by the bank under the title "The Dominion of Canada."

"The characteristics of the Canadian people, which most impress the observer," says the Bankers Trust Company, "is that of determination and achievement."

"Vision and courage were necessary to bring the Canada of 1867 and the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick with their sparse combined population of less than three million into a confederation."

"It took courage, in 1870, to bring into the confederation the almost limitless territory stretching westward to the Pacific and Northward to Hudson Bay and the Arctic Seas."

"It took courage to link together this empire, greater in square miles than our own United States, by railroads running into the untrodden wilderness. For nearly fifty years the men of Canada were busy conquering the wilderness, and bringing into full flower a representative government admirably adapted to meet the problems of a great democracy."

The Price of Empire.

"Then came the great war. Canada was ready. Immediately she set about mobilizing her man-power, Great armies were transported over the sea and at once they began 'to do things.' If there was a difficult position to be held, a hard battle to be fought, an important post to be taken the Canadians made good. They had conquered the wilderness. By the use of the same quiet determination, the same habit of achievement, they could conquer the enemy."

"Not only did they fight for the empire, but Canada paid their bills. The war cost Canada nearly sixty thousand lives and over a billion and three-quarters in money. This gift of men and money in defense of the Empire came from a people of less than nine million."

"Needless to say," continues the Bankers Trust company's study, "such a record of achievement as is afforded the history of Canada during the fifty-odd years which have elapsed since 'Dominion Day' 1867 is not due to chance. Canada has been fortunate during this period in having in political life and in business a group of able, resourceful, morally strong, patriotic men who were not alone capable in action but capable in leadership.

They could not have achieved if there had not been working with them a splendid body of intelligent, determined and resourceful citizenry, men and women of moral force and courage such as a new country alone seems to develop.

Her Place in the Sun.

"As evidence of Canada's phenomenal development the latest available figures indicate that the Dominion in relation to nine other industrial countries now stands first in area, second in potential water power, third in total railway mileage, fifth in total exports, sixth in pig iron production, total exports and foreign trade, and eighth in population."

"The friendship between the Canadian people and ourselves is traditional. Canada exchanges more business with us than with any other nation, not excepting the United Kingdom. We have only one greater customer than Canada and that one is the United Kingdom."

"Canada has scarcely begun to grow. Her friendship and her business will be increasingly worth while. We have nothing to fear from her efforts to develop her resources and her manufacturing enterprises. Such development will only increase her need for greater quantities of goods from outside and her ability to pay for them."

"As her nearest and most convenient market," declares the Bankers Trust Company, "we will have only ourselves to blame if we do not hold our present trade more, but also add immeasurably thereto."

Packing Christmas Boxes.—At a well-attended meeting of the Ladies Guild of the Connaught Seamen's Institute, held yesterday afternoon in that building, Mrs. Thomson, president, reported that 53 well-stocked boxes had been packed as Christmas presents for lighthouse keepers and attendants. The boxes contained woolens, toys and books, pipes and tobacco, and were so designed as to contain something that would bring pleasure to all. The Guild rendered a vote of thanks to the school for their co-operation in donating books to the Rotary Club, and to all others who have so generously donated candy and other useful gifts. On Thursday, November 19 a birthday tea is to be held by the Guild, when there will be a small sale of work, and a musical programme. The thanksgiving service held at the Pantages Theatre on October 24 was reported on, and the local chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Spence, gave an interesting address. On October 22 there had been an entertainment for the helpers on the flag day, and Mrs. Kingham was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for her assistance as convener. Several additional members were enrolled.

First Listener.—"Isn't Miss Squawbie's top note sooth'g?"

Second Ditto: "Oh, isn't it? When you hear that you feel you have passed the worst."

SEWER TROUBLES DOG THE STEPS OF SAANICH COUNCIL

Powerful Odors Cause Councilors to Install Drain; Fear of Abuse Voiced

Sewerage discussion once more took up much of the time of the Saanich Council, when Councillor Graham made an appeal for the extension of a surface drain on Kelvin Road to put an end to a nuisance, which he maintained was insupportably powerful, so long as the present open ditch exists.

General opposition to the work was voiced, as being open to abuse by residents privately putting in a connection and so converting a surface drain into a sewer and rendering the municipality liable to damages.

Councillor Dooley deprecated any action, as the Department of Health would soon be taking an interest in sanitation in Saanich.

Councillor Clark considered that some provision for sewerage, such as improved septic tanks, should be installed and charged against property affected.

Twitted For Past Action.

Councillor Terrell failed to understand how Councillor Clark could be so interested in sewerage, when he had worked against the sewer scheme.

Councillor Graham considered that a covered tile was no more objectionable than an open drain, and said the health of a number of children were imperiled by present conditions.

In reply to Councillor Clark, he maintained that while sink wastes might be discharged to such a covered drain, no filth would be able to seep through.

On a vote the work was authorized, but careful attention will be kept to see no abuse of the drain takes place.

SAANICH SHOWS WELL IN REPORT

Extracts From Municipal Inspector Baird's Report Please Saanich Councilors

From the latest report of the Inspector of Municipalities, Clerk Cowper extracted many facts regarding municipal taxation, and submitted them last night to the Saanich Council, as of general interest not only to the Council but to many of the ratepayers of Saanich.

The reports is as follows:

"I have just received a copy of the report of the Inspector of Municipalities, from which I have taken a few salient facts regarding the question of taxation, which I give you below, as I feel sure that these will be of general interest not only to the Council but to many of the ratepayers of Saanich," said Mr. Cowper.

"There are in the Province of British Columbia 62 municipalities, of which 24 are city municipalities. In these municipalities reside 374,740 people and of this number less than 1 per cent. live in municipalities in which the tax rate is under 20 mills and just 30 per cent. live in municipalities in which the tax rate is less than 30 mills. The figures are as follows:

349,730 people live in municipalities where the rate is 20 mills or over.

"25,010 people live in municipalities where the rate is under 20 mills.

"22,219 people live in municipalities where the rate is 30 mills or over, and

"122,530 people live in municipalities where the rate is under 30 mills.

"I give you below the relative position in which Saanich ranks with regard to various items, first among all municipalities, second among district municipalities only.
